The Reynolds Family Association

THE FIFTEENTH ANNUAL REUNION of the Reynolds Family Association was held at Wickford, R. I., Thursday, August 16, 1906. Preceding the annual business meeting a reception was held and a committee of local members headed by Mr. Joseph G. Reynolds, who, on behalf of the Wickford Reynoldses, extended the invitation to the association to meet at Wickford, welcomed arriving members of the association and guests. At eleven o'clock the business meeting, which was held in the Guild Hall connected with the Episcopal Church, was called to order, the president in the chair. The annual banquet was attended by a larger number of people than ever before sat down to a Reynolds Association dinner—more than one hundred persons being in attendance. The dinner, an old fashioned Rhode Island clambake, which was much enjoyed by all, was prepared under the direction of Mr. Joseph G. Reynolds and served on the lawn. It was agreed that Mr. Reynolds proved a capital host. The post prandial exercises were held in the hall. John P. Reynolds of Bristol, R. I., acted as toastmaster, and addresses were made by Judge George G. Reynolds of Brooklyn, N. Y., W. Myron Reynolds, M. D., of New York, Harry C. Reynolds, Esq., of Scranton, Pa. the Rev. Frederick B. Cole of Wickford, and others. Owing to the fact that historic Wickford and several nearby towns were the homes of the ancestors of a large number of members of the association, several stayed long enough to visit the old homesteads and burial grounds in this vicinity.

Order of Exercises

The meeting was called to order at eleven o'clock by the president, Mr. G. L. Reynolds of Philadelphia.

Prayer by the Rev. F. B. Cole of Wickford, R. I.

Report of the Historian

BY HOWARD REYNOLDS OF BOSTON

Mr. President, and Members of the Reynolds Family Association:

The reports of the general historian of the association can never be very specific under the conditions which exist. He can know but little of any of the five great and practically independent branches save his own, and therefore his general report, to be ideal, should be brief, covering the progress made in collecting data, and supplemented each year by reports from one or more of the historians who are looking up special branches. An effort will be made to have this plan carried out more fully in the future.

Briefly, then, progress has been as follows: The genealogy of the John of Weymouth branch is the most forward in condition, having been typewritten, and is practically ready to hand over to the printers.

The genealogy of the Robert of Boston branch is in fairly good condition. A compiler and collector of the later generations should be set to work upon it. Judge John Post Reynolds estimates that it could be made ready in this manner in about a year and for about $1,000.

James Reynolds of North Kingstown has probably the largest records by far of the five branches, and Mr. H. C. Reynolds of Scranton has the largest volume of matter concerning it. Many branches of this line have been completed and published. Great progress has been made upon this line during the past year; it has been proven definitely that the location of the James Reynolds homestead is as asserted by Thomas A. Reynolds and as proved by Rev. Dr. Cole.

The precise condition of the records of the line of John of Wethersfield, now in the hands of Mr. Marcus T. Reynolds of Albany, is unknown. This is quite as much the fault of the historian as of Marcus T., as inquiry could have been made.

The deeply regretted decease of Mr. J. T. Reynolds of Media leaves us in uncertainty as to the condition of his records of Henry of Chichester, but an effort will be made to ascertain their state and to have them safeguarded and at the proper time fully utilized.

The main desire of the historian is to have the records of all the branches collected and preserved. This has been done in the case of the John of Weymouth branch, which now has three complete copies, two being typewritten, and one the original papers of Mrs. Fosdick. By keeping these in different localities the danger of loss is practically eliminated. Capt. S. W. Reynolds of Pinckneyville, Ill., kindly volunteered to typewrite Mrs. Fosdick's memoirs, and the thanks of the John of Weymouth branch are due him. He has further volunteered to keep a card index of the family and also to handle all inquiries from those who cannot find their ancestors, and assist if possible in getting them into their proper place. Capt. Reynolds is eminently qualified for this task, as he has the necessary leisure and a mind trained to carefulness and precision by his former profession.

The publication committee will present a plan for adoption which seems to promise definite results.

Report accepted and placed on file.

Report of the Necrologist

BY JOHN P. REYNOLDS

On account of the failure heretofore to elect some one person to act as necrologist, the president has asked me to fill that place to-day. It must be very difficult, and it is especially so, I think, without any preparation whatever. Of course, there is a pleasure in it, and on the other hand, it is very unpleasant. It is pleasant, because there is always a pleasure in remembering and thinking upon the loved ones who have left us. We all feel our inability to speak of those who have gone before us, so I shall not attempt to-day to go fully into the case of each of those whose names have been handed me. Some of them I was surprised to hear were no longer with us.

FRANK REYNOLDS of Brooklyn, N. Y., on October 21, 1905. I think all of us who were present a few years ago at New London will remember the opening address made at that time. A pamphlet has been printed on his life which will tell his story more fully than I am able to. Those of you who read that will understand what a loss his death is to the association.

MRS. CAROLINE R. BOYNTON of Hartford, Conn., descendant of Robert Reynolds. My acquaintance with her has been short. I met her at two or three meetings, and I think we all feel the same—that she was a person whom we will miss very much, and one who took great interest in the association. She died October 22, 1905.

FRANK W. REYNOLDS of Boston. He had been engaged in banking for many years in Boston. He was very much interested in the Reynolds family genealogy. My first acquaintance of him was when I wrote him a letter fifteen years ago, asking for information on certain points. Some time after, I met him and he was the kind of a man I expected to see. He was a member of the Boston branch of the Reynolds family.

JOHN T. REYNOLDS of Media, Pa. It has been my pleasure to meet him several times at the association, and we all remember him last year.

Born near Rising Sun, Cecil County, Md., September 14, 1845, died May 30, 1906, at Atlantic City, N. J., where he had gone for the benefit of his health. He was educated at Fairville Academy, Fairville, Pa., and later graduated at Eastman's Business College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where later he was a professor for some years. Leaving there he engaged in business at his native place until he took up the study of law in the office of Judge John W. Broomall of Media, Delaware County, Pa., where he later established himself successfully; never accepting a case that he believed was not right, he became known among the Quaker element of the town as the honest lawyer. He was closely identified with the Reynolds Family Association and took an active interest in its welfare. Was a direct descendant of the tribe of Henry of Chichester. In his death the association has lost a valuable friend and worker.

WILLIAM R. FLEMING of Harrisburg, Pa., died at Washington June 6, 1906, at the age of forty-five years. He was president and general manager of the Hartford Machine Company. As an engine builder he was known throughout the country.

THOMAS A. REYNOLDS of East Orange, N. J., died December 8, 1905. Mr. Reynolds was born in Wickford, R. I., fifty-eight years ago. He was a direct descendant of James Reynolds of North Kingstown, R. I., and has always taken a lively interest in the Reynolds Family Association, attending whenever possible with his wife and daughters. He was located in business in New York City, being the vice-president of the jewelry firm of O. C. Deverum Company.

WILLIAM A. REYNOLDS of Wilmington, Del., was born at Cincinnati, Ohio, May 18, 1837. His father dying when he was two years of age, he was taken to his grandfather's home in the state of Rhode Island. Here he spent his boyhood days. Having a natural bent for knowledge and an ambition to lead a useful life, he entered Wesleyan University, from which institution he was graduated in 1858. In the fall of the same year, he opened a school at Dover, Del., but realizing that a wider field existed for his talents in the city of Wilmington, he removed there in 1865. Quiet and dignified in demeanor, his patient and kindly manner has endeared his memory to the host of students that he trained and prepared for a successful business life. He married Anna, daughter of Henry Todd of Dover, Del., August 1, 1861. In 1903 in conjunction with his uncle he had published a genealogical pamphlet of his branch of the Reynolds family. Raised as a Friend, he afterwards became identified with the Methodist Church. A memoir of his life was published by the Delaware Historical Society of which he was a member. He died July 21, 1906.

poem

BY MISS CELIA MARY REYNOLDS

To the Members of the Reynolds Family Association

Assembled at the Fifteenth Annual Reunion—Greeting:

Oft a shadow overclouding
Creeps upon a sunny day,
And the day's glad, cheerful spirit
With its brightness fades away.

Sometimes laughing, dancing, jumping,
Down the mountain comes the brook
But to sulk in silent longing
For the heights which it forsook.

Oft the birds, in spring returning
From the southland warm and fair,
Find the northern skies still gloomy,
And the chill yet in the air.

As the day regrets the passing
 Of the sunshine from its face,
 As the brook regrets the ending
 Of its gladsome mountain race,

As the birds regret the summer
 'Mid the branches cold and bare,
 So my heart regrets my failure
 In your feast this year to share.

But the years will yet go onward
 'Mid life's hopes and 'mid its fears;
 Bringing meetings, bringing partings,
 Bringing joys and bringing tears.

Through it all by noble actions
 Vitalized by faith in God,
 It is ours to tread that pathway
 Which the blest have ever trod.

It is ours to reach that Mansion
 Where the Heavenly Feast is set;
 And the Christ who leads us thither
 Leaves us nothing to regret.

Upon invitation of Mr. John P. Reynolds it was unanimously voted to hold the next annual reunion at Bristol, R. I.

The committee on entertainment composed of the following gentlemen was reëlected:

Mr. Joseph G. Reynolds of Wickford, R. I.
