The Reynolds Family Association

The thirty-seventh annual reunion of the Association was held at the McAlpin Hotel, New York City, on Saturday, October 13, 1928. Reception to members and friends was held in the Colonial Room of the hotel at 11 A.M.

THE BUSINESS MEETING

At noon, following the reception, the meeting was called to order by Vice-President, Miss Harriet L. Reynolds of Greenwich, Conn. Meeting opened with prayer by our Chaplain, Rev. Frank T. B. Reynolds of Keyport, N. J. Minutes of previous meeting and with the 1926-7 Annual, they were approved, unanimously. The report on Necrology was read and approved as printed further on. A silent tribute was offered. With no objections the officers were requested to remain the same as the previous year.

The meeting place for 1929 was presented. It was thought well to meet in different places. In this way we could occasionally have an historical atmosphere, and then some of the members might find it more convenient to attend the Reunion.

Rev. Frank T. B. Reynolds extended an invitation to meet in Keyport, N. J., in 1929; motion was presented and carried; we will meet there next year.

One of the Publications was presented by Mr. George W. Reynolds of Glen Ridge, N. J., The Line of John and Sarah (Backus) Reynolds of Norwich, Conn. This Branch is one of the smaller Lines but a very interesting one and the interest of all the members was solicited. (See page 16.)

With no further business the meeting adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

ANNA C. RIPPIER, Secretary.

ABIGAIL REYNOLDS

ABIGAIL⁵ REYNOLDS, born Norwich, Conn., Feb. 5, 1774; died there in 1851 was the daughter of Joseph and Phebe (Lee) Reynolds, married CAPT. GILES L'HOMMEDIU, May 10, 1795.

Abigail was born in the Reynolds' homestead now the home of another descendant, Mrs. Gardiner Greene.

In the History of JOHN AND SARAH (BACKUS) REYNOLDS will be found extracts from Abigail's diary, most interesting with the expressions of some of her personal experiences.

There will also be found some pictures of the Reynolds' homestead, also an interior view; photographs of other members of this Branch of the family; wills, copies of signatures also the record of over 500 descendants; much history, which makes a most pleasing copy to have.

This book was edited by our Mr. Marion H. Reynolds and we are deeply grateful for his efforts and preparations in this splendid publication.

The Passport

As the bright and flower-crowned Summer
Now has flitted far away,
And the beautiful October
Paints for us a landscape gay,
Come we to the thirty-seventh
Meeting of the R. F. A.

All these years the clans have gathered
E'er with willing, eager feet,
And with warm and hearty hand-clasp
Each and everyone to greet,
And beside our banquet table
Gladly find a social seat.

To this scene one name is passport—
One long-loved and honored name
That from far across the ocean
With God-fearing young men came,
And that down through generations
Has been not unknown to fame.

He who wills to wed a Reynolds—
She who makes that name her choice—
They into this group are welcomed
With united family voice,
And Heaven's blessing on our union
Makes each loyal heart rejoice.

CELIA MARY REYNOLDS.

THE REYNOLDS COAT OF ARMS

The Reynolds Coat of Arms, used by this Association is a reproduction of one on the tombstone in Bristol, R. I., of the line of Robert Reynolds, of Boston. It represents three foxes on the shield, with a fox as a crest. The family was originally Norman-French, the name, a corruption of Renard or Renaud (French) or Reynard (English) which is "fox."

The use of the three foxes on the escutcheon, or shield, instead of one, is a repetition, which is usual in such matters, as witness the three leopards (not lions as is popularly supposed) on the Coat of Arms of England, the three lilies of France, and numerous other similar examples. The use of the Coat of Arms, for actual identification of a family, or tribe, was common in former ages, and in battle, to distinguish a friend from an enemy, while encased in armor.

The name Rothschild was derived from their insignia, literally, a red shield. Shakespeare's Arms bears a spear upon it, etc.

The fact that our shield is so plain in design, with no quarterings or incorporations of other families, as was customary when important families intermarried, shows that we were plain folk, and this is also indicated by the helmet which is a Squire's—being faced to the left, while a Knight is faced toward the front.

There were none of the old stock in any of the Reynolds family lines, but were both respectable and respected, patriotic and law abiding. The colors of the shield and foxes indicate our French extraction, filtered through England, since the time of William the Conqueror; there were five Renards that are on the Battle Abbey list of France.

The background or body of the shield is French blue; it is a law of Heraldry that color must not go on color, or metal on metal, but one upon the other. The choice of either silver or gold for the foxes is optional; the latter, however, is considered most desirable.

The Reynolds Coat of Arms, painted in appropriate permanent colors, by a skilled artist in Heraldry, may be purchased from the Secretary of R. F. A., by any of the members. Price, $3.50.

GENEALOGY OF JOHN³ REYNOLDS (JOSEPH,² JAMES¹)

of Exeter, Rhode Island

by

SHERIDAN E. GARDINER, M.D.,

Mount Pleasant, Mich.

JOHN³ REYNOLDS (Joseph,² James¹) was born in that part of Kingstown that later became North Kingstown and still later became Exeter, about 1688 and died in Exeter, January 2, 1771. Of his first marriage, nothing is known, excepting that he was a married man in 1712 and that by this first wife, he had a daughter; married (2) in Kingstown, December 6, 1717, HANNAH HULL, born in Kingstown, 169., died in Exeter, before March 27, 1769, daughter of Joseph and Experience (Harper) Hull.

March 8, 1713, he entered into an agreement with his father and step-mother relative to their care, showing conclusively that he was then a married man.

May 1, 1716, John Reynolds, son of Joseph, was admitted freeman of Kingstown.

July 17, 1728, he bound himself by bond to maintain his father-in-law, Joseph Hull during the life of the said father-in-law, showing positively that his wife's maiden name was Hannah Hull, not Hannah Hall, as generally supposed until the author discovered the above record.

As this is a genealogical record, it seems useless to give briefs of all the land transactions of this John Reynolds, however, it might be stated that he accumulated a large property as is shown by his will.

He was born on his father's old homestead and there he lived until the time of his death. This old homestead is now in the township of Exeter, in the southeast corner of the Reynolds and Bentley Purchase, the little dotted line on the map showing the driveway to the location of the old home, q. v., page 57, Reynolds Annual of 1922.

All that is stated relative to this John Reynolds on page 88, Reynolds Annual of 1922, is reliable and excellently stated.

Child of the first wife, born in (North) Kingstown, now Exeter:

Hannah, b. 171.; m. Nov. 3, 1734, Henry Tibbets of George.

This marriage record is given as follows: "Henry Tibbets, son of George and Hannah Rennolds, daughter of John, married Nov. 3, 1734, by Robert Hall, Justice." See North Kingstown Births and Marriages, page 75, Volume 1700-1870.

Children of John Rennolds & Hannah his wife

—	Rennolds, s. b. Aug. 23, 1722
Benjamin	" s. b. Jan. 31, 1726
—an	" s. b. Oct. 9, 172—
—th	" d. b. Nov. 14, 17—
—	" d. b. Mar. 11, 17—
—	— b. — 5, 17—

The above record locates Benjamin, Jonathan, Elizabeth and Mary.

John Reynolds, son of John Reynolds of Exeter, was admitted freeman, May 1, 1744, and Joseph Reynolds married a woman who was born May 18, 1738, therefore we are justified in placing John as the oldest son and Joseph as the youngest son. This order of birth agrees with the order as given by ex-Lieut. Gov. John Jonathan Reynolds who also supplies the missing dates. We can now arrange the family as follows:

Children of the second wife, born in (North) Kingstown, now Exeter:

John,	b. Aug. 23, 1722; m. May 15, 1757, Mary Spencer of Job,
Benjamin,	b. Jan. 31, 1726; m. Mar. 19, 1746, Alice Waite of John,
Jonathan,	b. Oct. 9, 172—; m. Dec. 11, 1755, Ann Knowles of Robert,
Elizabeth,	b. Nov. 14, 17—; m. Nov. 19, 1761, James Sherman
Mary,	b. Mar. 11, 17—; m. Mar. 25, 1753, John Congdon
Joseph,	b. — 5, 17—; m. May 23, 1756, Dorcas Tibbitts of George.

EXPLANATIONS AND SUGGESTIONS:

This John³ Reynolds (Joseph,² James¹) must not be confused with the John³ Reynolds (Henry,² James¹) who was born June 10, 1688, and who also married a Hannah ——. I have the wills of these two men and so am positive about this matter.

The Henry Tibbitts who married Hannah Reynolds, Nov. 3, 1734, was the fifth child of George and Mary (—) Tibbitts and so must have been born about 1710. He and Hannah lived in North Kingstown.

John and Mary (Spencer) Reynolds lived in East Greenwich which fact probably accounts for his not being named the executor of his father's will.

Children: See Births and Marriages of East Greenwich by Arnold.†

Benjamin and Alice (Waite) Reynolds lived in Exeter and he must not be confused with Benjamin³ Reynolds (Joseph,² James¹) who was indigent and was cared for by Joseph Reynolds son of Benjamin and Alice (Waite) Reynolds, that is, the indigent Benjamin was cared for by his nephew's son Joseph.

The relationship being as follows: Joseph,² Benjamin,³

John,³ Benjamin,⁴ Joseph⁵

Children: See Births and Marriages of Exeter by Arnold, page 56.

Mr. Lucius E. Weaver gives the marriages of this family:‡

Jonathan and Ann (Knowles) Reynolds lived in Exeter, but the Birth and Marriage Records of Exeter by Arnold give only the following children: Hannah, July 20, 1756; Ann, May 6, 1758; Jonathan, Oct. 7, 1760. The Friends' Records positively add Robert, John and William, and undoubtedly Susannah, Elizabeth and Mary were also of this family. The Census of 1774 gives Jonathan and his wife with 4 boys under 16, 1 daughter over 16 and 4 daughters under 16. Since Hannah married Sylvester Gardiner, June 6, 1773, Ann was the daughter over 16 and there must have been one more daughter to make the 4 under 16.

James and Elizabeth (Reynolds) Sherman lived in South Kingstown.

John and Mary (Reynolds) Congdon lived in Exeter.

Joseph and Dorcas (Tibbitts) Reynolds lived in Exeter but their children are not given by Arnold.*

THE WILL OF JOHN² REYNOLDS

IN THE NAME OF GOD, AMEN, the 27th day of March, in the 9th year of his Majesty's Reign George the third, King of Great Britain, etc., A. D., one thousand seven hundred and sixty-nine, I, John Reynolds, of Exeter, in the County of Kings County in the colony of Rhode Island, etc., yeoman, being somewhat indisposed in body but of sound disposing mind and memory thanks be to God therefor and calling to mind the mortality of my body and knowing that it is appointed unto men once to die, do make and ordain this instrument in writing to be my last will and testament, that is to say:—Principally and first of all I commend my soul into the hands of God that gave it and my body to the earth to be therein decently buried at the discretion of my executor hereafter named and as touching such worldly estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life, I give and dispose of the same in the following manner and form:—

Imprimis:—I give and bequeath unto my son Benjamin Reynolds all that tract of land called the Robert farm whereon he now lives and being in Exeter aforesaid, which farm is bounded easterly on land of my son Jonathan Reynolds, southerly on land of Joseph Arnold, westerly partly on land of Jeffry Champlin and partly on land hereafter given to my son John Reynolds; northerly on land of George Reynolds containing one hundred and forty acres more or less.

Item:—I give and bequeath unto my son Jonathan Reynolds, his heirs and assigns forever, all that part of my homestead farm lying to the south and southeast of a certain line running straight from a certain old white oak tree standing in the edge of the great pond so as to run an easterly course across part of the great pond to a certain black oak tree standing on a hill at the east end of said pond marked on the west side with the letters I x R and to extend east to the highway straight ten rods to the south of a white oak tree standing by the wall which tree is near opposite to Durfy's chimney. Said tract of land is partly in Exeter and partly in North Kingstown bounded easterly on a highway, southerly on land of Joseph Arnold, westerly on land of my said son Jonathan and northerly on the aforesaid described line with all the appurtenances to him my said son Jonathan, his heirs and assigns forever.

Item:—I give and bequeath unto my son Joseph Reynolds, all the remaining part of my homestead farm be the same more or less lying partly in North Kingstown and partly in Exeter and is bounded northerly on the ten rod highway, easterly on a highway, southerly on the land belonging to my son Jonathan Reynolds at the aforesaid described line, westerly on land of George Reynolds together with a dwelling house and all other buildings and appurtenances thereunto belonging which said tract of land I give to my said son Joseph Reynolds, his heirs and assigns forever.

Item:—I give and bequeath unto my son John Reynolds, sixty acres of land lying and being in Exeter and is bounded southerly on the ten rod highway, westerly on a highway northerly so far as will make the aforesaid sixty acres, easterly on a strip of land reserved sufficient for a cartway to get to and from my other land for the use of my other sons to whom I have hereafter conveyed the same. Also I give to my said son John Reynolds, one other lot of land lying in Exeter aforesaid, containing about thirty acres more or less and is bounded northerly on the ten rod highway, easterly and southerly and westerly on the land of Jeffry Champlin with a dwelling house and all the other buildings, the which two aforesaid lots I give to my son John Reynolds, his heirs and assigns forever.

Item:—I give and bequeath unto my two sons John Reynolds and Benjamin Reynolds one certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in West Greenwich in the County of Kent containing two hundred acres be the same more or less and is bounded easterly on Wood River, southerly on land of Ephraim Hazard, westerly on land of Thomas Rathbone, northerly on land of Robert Hazard, Jr., with all houses and appurtenances, to the said John Reynolds and Benjamin Reynolds, their heirs and assigns forever, to equally divided between them.

Item:—I give unto my two sons Jonathan Reynolds and Joseph Reynolds two lots of land lying and being in Exeter aforesaid; First lot is bounded southerly on land which I have before given to my son John Reynolds, westerly on a highway, northerly on a highway, easterly on land of Robert Reynolds partly and partly on land of John Spencer, the driftway to come out to the ten rod highway. The other tract lying and being in Exeter aforesaid and is bounded southerly on a highway, westerly on the land of Thomas Rathbun, northerly and easterly partly on land of Robert Reynolds and partly on land of Bentley, the two aforesaid lots of land be the same more or less I give to my two sons, Jonathan Reynolds and Joseph Reynolds, their heirs and assigns forever.

Item:—I give and bequeath unto my son Benjamin Reynolds, my right to and property in the land called the Susquehanna Purchase, to him, his heirs and assigns forever.

Item:—I give to my daughter, Elizabeth Shearman, the sum of eight hundred pounds old tenor, to be paid her by my executor within two years after my decease.

Item:—I give unto my son-in-law John Condon eight hundred pounds old tenor to be paid to him by my executor within two years after my decease.

Item:—I give and bequeath unto my son Jonathan Reynolds my negro boy named Caesar.

Item:—I give my son Benjamin Reynolds my negro girl named Countess.

Item:—I give to my son John Reynolds my negro man named Pero.

Item:—I order and give after all my just debts and legacies be fully paid that all my moveable and personal estate be equally divided between my two sons John and Benjamin Reynolds. I also order that my negro woman named Countess have her liberty to live with either of my four sons and to have her bed that she now lies on and that if she lives to become charitable that she be well maintained equally between my four sons.

And lastly I do hereby nominate and appoint my son Benjamin Reynolds my executor to this my last will and testament, hereby making void all other wills and bequeaths by me heretofore made, ratifying this and no other to be my last will and testament.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year above written.

Signed, sealed, published, pronounced and delivered to be the last will and testament of the said John Reynolds.

JOSHUA REYNOLDS

From Little Journeys to the Homes of the Great.

Vol. iv; by Elbert Hubbard.*

On the curious little river Plym, five miles from Plymouth, is the hamlet of Plympton. It is now over two hundred years ago since Joshua Reynolds was born there. The place has not changed so very much with the centuries; there still stands the quaint stone houses, built on arches over the sidewalks, and there too, is the old Norman church with its high mullioned windows. Chester shows the best example of that very early architecture, and Plympton is Chester done in pigmy. The birthplace of Reynolds is one of those houses in the "Row". Joshua was the seventh child in the family of five boys and six girls, of the Reverend Samuel Reynolds. The fond parents set him apart for the church, and to that end he was placed in the Plympton Grammar School, and made to "do" fifty lines of Ovid a day. Joshua did not like Latin, he hated the set task of fifty lines, and hated the system that imposed a fine of twenty lines for a failure to fulfill the first. The fines piled up until young Joshua aged twelve, going thirteen, went into such hopeless bankruptcy, that he could not pay tuppence on the pound. On a sheet of this Latin done at that time, in a cramped school boy hand, is a picture, under it is a line written by his father, "This is drawn by Joshua out of pure idleness." The clergyman was considerate and granted the lad's request to let the Latin slide, possibly the master of the school had offered some explanations. All the Reynolds children drew pictures and most of them drew better than Joshua, but as he did not get along well at school, felt the necessity of doing something.

It is a great blessing to be born into a family where strict economy of time and money is necessary. The idea that nothing shall be wasted, and that each child must carve out for himself a career, is a thrice-blessed heritage. Joshua found in a Copy of Richardson's "Theory of Painting," that the author prophesied the rise of a great school of English painters. He wanted to go to London and study with Hudson the son-in-law and pupil of Richardson. A Mr. Craunch, one of the pew-holders in the Rev. Samuel Reynolds' church, became interested in Joshua and later took him to London and entered him as a pupil with the great Hudson. Joshua was very happy there, he was only seventeen years old when he arrived there fresh from the country. London was a marvel of delight to him, the shops, theatres, galleries and exhibitions were a never-ending source of joy.

Hudson was well-to-do, dignified and kind. His place was full of casts and classic fragments, and when he had set his pupils to copying, these he considered his day's work done.

Joshua wrote glowing letters home, telling all that he did. "While I am at work I am the happiest creature alive." He only remained with Hudson two years, during that time when the scholars wanted advice, they often went to Joshua, and some of them being sons of rich men, paid Reynolds for helping them.

Joshua went back to Devonshire, Mr. Craunch took him over to Lord Edgumbe, of Plymouth, carried along the portrait of himself that Joshua had made, and asked mildred if he did not want one just like it. Edgumbe said he surely did, and asked Joshua if he painted the picture all alone, by himself—Joshua smiled.

Lord Edgumbe had a beautiful house and to have a good picture of himself and a few old ancestors on the walls, he thought would be very fine. Joshua took up his abode in the mansions, the better to do his work. A handsome youth, nearly twenty years old, with bright beaming eyes, a slight but compact form, and brown curls that came to his shoulders. His London life had given him a confidence in himself, and in his manner there was a grace and poise flavored with a becoming diffidence. He was young, but an artist in diplomacy. His talent, his modesty, his youth, his beauty, won the hearts of the entire Edgcombe household. While at this home Joshua met young Commodore Keppel.

In Seventeen Hundred Forty-nine, Commodore Keppel was placed in command of the Mediterranean fleet, with orders to clear the Seas of the Barbary pirates. Keppel invited Reynolds to join him on board the "Centurion" as his guest. Gladly he accepted and they sailed away for the Orient with a cabin stocked with good things and enough brushes, paints, canvasses and easels to last several painters a lifetime.

It was three years before Reynolds came back to Plymouth. He had visited Lisbon, Cadiz, Gibraltar, Port Mahon and Minorca. At the two last-named places there were British garrisons and Reynolds set to work making portraits of the officers. For this he was so well paid that he decided to visit Italy instead of voyaging farther with his friend Keppel. He then journeyed on to Naples, Rome, Venice, Pisa and Florence, stopping in each city for several months, immersing himself in the art atmosphere of the place. Returning to Rome, he remained two years, studying and copying the works of Raphael, Angelo, Titian and other masters. Occasionally he sold his copies of masterpieces, and by practising strict economy managed to live in a fair degree of comfort. Joshua Reynolds escaped the damp of the Vatican with nothing worse than a deafness that caused him to carry an ear trumpet for the rest of his life.

After his return to Plymouth, Lord Edgcombe again became interested and arranged that Reynolds should pitch his tent in the heart of artistic London, a handsome suite of apartments was secured in Saint Martin's Lane. Joshua was young and strong, and he worked from sunrise to sunset. That first year in London he produced one hundred twenty portraits, besides painting various other pictures. This he could not have done without the assistance of a most loyal helper, who was Giuseppe Marchi.

In selecting his time for a career, Joshua Reynolds showed good judgment. He went into public favor on a high tide. England was prosperous, and there was in the air a taste for the polite arts. Literature was becoming a fad. Out at Strawberry Hill, his country home, Horace Walpole was running a little printing shop, making books that are now priceless, and writing long gossiping letters that body forth the spirit of the time, its form and pressure. The Dilettante Society, composed of young noblemen devoted to high art and good-fellowship, was discussing a scheme for a National Academy. Garrick was at the height of his fame; Hogarth was doing for art what Smollett did for literature; while two young Irishmen, Burke and Goldsmith, were getting ready to make English letters illustrious; Hudson was painting portraits with a stencil; Gainsborough was immortalizing a hat; Doctor Johnson was waiting in the entry of Lord Chesterfield's mansion with the prospectus of a dictionary. And so into this atmosphere of seething life came Joshua Reynolds. He was coldly diplomatic in his relations with his sitters; talked but little, because he could not hear, and to hold an ear-trumpet and paint with both hands was rather difficult. On the moment when the sitting was over, the patron was bowed out. Reynolds' specialty was women and children. No man has ever pictured them better, and with him all women were kind. Not only were they good, but good-looking. A frequent visitor at the studio was Angelica Kauffman, who came up from Switzerland, unknown, and made her way to the highest artistic circles in London. She had wit and beauty, and painted so well, that Reynolds admitted she taught him a few tricks in the use of color. She produced several portraits of Reynolds, and he painted several of her; and the daughter of Thackeray wrote a novel which turns on the assumption that they were lovers. There certainly was a fine comradeship existing between them; but whether Reynolds was ever capable of an all-absorbing passion there is much doubt. He was married to his work.

When the Royal Academy was formed in Seventeen Hundred Sixty-eight, Reynolds was made its president, this office he held until the close of his life. He was not one of the chief promoters of the Academy at the beginning, and the presidency was half forced upon him. He might have declined the honor then had the King not made him a knight, and showed that it was his wish that Reynolds should accept.

The thirty-four charter members included the names of two Americans, Copley and West, also Angelica Kauffman. Sir Joshua did not forget his friends at the time honors were given out, for he secured the King's permission to add several honorary members to the Academy—men who could not paint, but who expressed themselves well in other ways.

Doctor Johnson was made Professor of Ancient Literature; Oliver Goldsmith, Professor of Ancient History; and Richard Dalton, Librarian. In this case the office did not seek the man; the man was duly measured, and the office manufactured to fit him.

When Sir Joshua died, in February, Seventeen Hundred Nine-two, it was the close of a success so uninterrupted that it seems unequalled in the history of art.

He left a fortune equal to considerably more than half a million dollars; he had contributed valuable matter to the cause of literature; he had been the earnest friend of all workers in the cause of letters, music and art; and had also been the intimate advisor and confidant of royalty. He was generous and affectionate, wise and sincere; a cheerful and tireless worker—one in whom the elements were so well mixed that all the world might say, This was a man!

REVEREND SAMUEL REYNOLDS was born in 1681, the second son of Rev. John Reynolds, M.A., Prebendary of Exeter Cathedral and Vicar of St. Thomas, Exeter. He was admitted to a scholarship in Cirpius Christo College, Oxford, on the 25th day of May, 1699, when he was about 18 years old, and on the 23rd of February, 1704-5, was elected a probationary Fellow of Balliol. It is not known how long he held his fellowship, but most probably until his marriage in about 1712. The birth of his first two children are not registered at Plympton, and it is concluded that he was not appointed to the Mastership of Plympton Grammar School until the year 1714 or 1715.†

Rev. Samuel Reynolds, died, Christmas Day, Seventeen Hundred Forty-six.
