PRESIDENT'S CORNER

by Larry "Joe" Reynolds

As 2014 draws to a close I want to take this opportunity to wish everyone a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

On all accounts we must count 2014 as a very successful year. Our web site continues to grow, we've added close to 100 new members, we finally have ALL of our officer positions filled and we had a very successful Annual Reunion.

My goal for 2015 is to finish the new Line numbering system and to appoint Line Coordinators for all Lines.

I would also like to form an Election Committee, a Reunion Committee, a Web Site Committee and a DNA Committee. There is no way that I can accomplish these tasks without the help of members like you!

WELCOME NEW AND RETURNING MEMBERS!

MEET OUR NEW OFFICERS

Carolyn Reynolds Burnside

Bridgeport, West Virginia
Vice President Publications

Carolyn Burnside, a native of Clarksburg, WV, graduated from West Virginia University. She taught English and Oral Communication in two county high schools; the last ten years she taught Advanced Placement English Literature and Language in a magnet school. At the same time, she became a Realtor with a large, locally owned MLS company. She has written two books of local history, both of which received excellent reviews. She continues to be active in volunteer organizations. She and her late husband have two daughters: Kate Burnside, who teaches in a college in Nizwah, Oman, and Mary Wade Burnside Triplett, who is editor of a regional magazine and a newspaper life styles editor.

Frances Langley Ellsworth
Montgomery, Texas
Vice President Public Relations

Frances, better known as Hummer in the Blog world, works with FamilySearch Research and Indexing, as well as blog my Family History. She says, anything Genealogy catches my eye.

Presently Fran is a Church Service Missionary at FamilySearch and a Research

Genealogist, and Family Historian. She volunteers at the Conroe Family History Library and the Montgomery County Public Library Genealogical Department and serves as the 1st Vice President for the Montgomery Genealogical and Historical Society.

She is the author of several blogs and a Family Group on Facebook.

You will find her on Twitter, Facebook, and Google+, and LinkedIn. She has worked in support for FamilySearch Indexing, FamilySearch Wiki, FamilySearch product support, and on Facebook Genealogy Research pages as well as assisting others to master the FamilySearch Family Tree.

She says she loves Family History and filling out the tree with family stories.

Margaret Reynolds Herold Cannon

Lenoir, North Carolina
Newsletter Editor

Professional:

After completing her education, Margaret worked for seven years as a legal secretary. After that, she established her own accounting firm for fifteen years. In 1987 she established Computer Scope, Inc. and has served as owner and president of it since that time. Computer Scope, Inc. sells and services computer hardware, operating systems and computer software.

Civic Organizations:

She is a 40-year charter member of Altrusa International of Caldwell County, NC. She has served as an officer in all positions and served two terms as president. She produced the club newsletter for 3 years. She then moved to the district level and served as Governor of District Three Altrusa International (the highest district office) for two years. While Governor of District Three Altrusa, she was responsible for providing the contents of a quarterly newsletter. She then moved to the international level and served as Director of Altrusa International, Inc. for 2 years.

She served as Treasurer of The Shelter Home of Caldwell County, Inc. (a shelter for abused women and children) for 5 years.

For the past 6 years she has been a member of Quaker Meadows Daughters of American Revolution and currently holds the position of Second Vice Regent.

Personal:

Margaret was born and has lived in Caldwell County, NC, for her entire life except when she was married and then she lived in Watauga County, NC. She is divorced and has no children. She enjoys traveling (having visited all 50 states, 22 Caribbean Islands and 22 foreign countries), photography, reading and genealogy. She has traced three of her ancestors back to England in the 1500's.

Rev. John Allen Reynolds, Sr.
Orange City, Florida
RFA Chaplain

Pastor John Reynolds was born in Spencer, West Virginia; and after graduating from Spencer High School, he attended Tennessee Temple College in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Upon graduation from college he began his church ministry working in two different churches over the next two years and then returned to Chattanooga to attend Temple Baptist Theological Seminary and graduated in 1968.

He is married to Becky whom he met in Bible college. They were married in 1964 and have served full time in the ministry since 1966. Among her many gifts and talents, Becky is a concert pianist with truly a servant's heart. God has blessed them with four children and 13 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

His work experience includes many positions in Christian work: as a pastor, associate pastor, youth minister and minister of music. He has also served as the president of a Christian recording company and 13 years as the assistant editor of a Christian publication. Before moving to Florida he was the Vice President of Development at his alma mater.

In November, 1996, he accepted the invitation of four families to come to Central Florida and with them start a church which became known as Volusia County Baptist Church. The growth and success of the church has been unusual and continues to be so. Dr. Reynolds has for many years preached in churches and conferences across this nation and in many foreign countries. His zest for life is unabated and he often says these are the best days of his life. His enthusiasm for life in the service of the Lord is evident in his ministry.

Reverend John Reynolds is one of the Founders and Pastor of the Volusia County Baptist Church in Central Florida. His web site is: <http://volusiabaptist.org/>.

We also agreed to elect Debra Ann Reynolds Jones, Georgetown, Delaware as our Register Agent for the State of Delaware to replace Joyce Ann Reynolds Thompson who is moving to Virginia. We wish Joy the very best in her new home and thank her for her years of service.

REYNOLDS SURNAME DNA PROJECT

I am proud to announce that on December 11, 2014 the Reynolds Family Association was approved to assume the duties and responsibilities of Administrator of the Reynolds Surname DNA Project.

I will be sending out an e-mail in the next couple of days asking for volunteers to help form committees to help with this project. I have also developed a Web Site and you can see it at: <http://www.reynoldsdna.org>.

I would like for all current RFA male members who have not taken the yDNA test to consider taking it at this time. For our female members, I would suggest that you attempt to find a male (Reynolds) family member to take the test for you.

If you are already a member of the Reynolds Surname DNA project I would ask you to go to: www.reynoldsdna.org/release_form.html and complete the release form and get it to me so that we include your information on our web site.

We would also appreciate it if you would please complete the Pedigree Chart located at: www.reynoldsdna.org/pedigree.php.

VISIT FROM A MEMBER

On October 14, Member John W. Streeter of Wamego, Kansas stopped in Mount Pleasant for a visit with RFA President Joe Reynolds. Anyone coming through my part of the woods please let me know. I would love to meet you.

RFA Dispatch

This is the final RFA Dispatch (newsletter) for 2014, as well as my final as the Editor. The RFA has a new Editor, Margaret Reynolds Cannon. Cousin Margaret assumes duties effective January. I'm leaving the publication dates, content of the newsletter, as well as the formatting to her discretion.

The newsletter belongs to everyone and needs your help by submission of articles, stories, and information. Please do not assume something is or isn't newsletter worthy; submit it to Margaret and she will decide. You can send information to: crburnside842@frontier.com

MEMBERSHIP RENEWAL

As the year draws to an end I'm sorry to say that we still have a number of members who have not renewed their membership. Your name will be removed from our Web Site and Mailing List if we do not receive our renewal in the next couple of weeks.

You can renew your membership in the RFA by completing the last page of this newsletter and mailing it along with your check to the address at the bottom of the form or you can renew online at: www.reynoldsfamily.org/pay_dues.php.

We hate to see anyone go, but to those who have already contacted me stating that they would not be renewing I wish you the best.

Know that you are always welcome back.

If you have questions about your renewal
please contact me.

THE REYNOLDS FAMILY AND THE CAMEL CITY

Winston Salem, North Carolina is like many modern cities: it has flourishing businesses, arts, and schools throughout. The city is also rich in history, and its success stems from one man whose innovative tobacco company brought life to the Camel City: R.J. Reynolds. He was a genuine philanthropic man whose desire for elevated working conditions and community involvement were shared by his wife and children. As the city of Winston Salem flourished from R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Reynolds house flourished to become one of the nations' leading art museums.

The Founding of a Company

R.J. Reynolds left his father's plantation in Patrick County, VA in 1875 when he was 25 and moved down to Winston Salem, NC. With $7,500 he bought a plot of land and a house and continued the tobacco trade he learned from his father. In 1888, he founded R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. In 1899, JB Duke's American Tobacco Co was the majority shareholder for the company, but they kept R.J. Reynolds as its president. In 1907, he introduced Prince Albert smoking tobacco on the market. In 1909, a US circuit court declared Duke a monopoly and broke it up, leaving R.J. as an independent company. In 1913, he introduced the infamous Camel brand of cigarettes to the market.

R.J. Reynolds said the secret to his success was 'finding real pleasure in working out a task that others would not do'. His "genuine concern for [the employees'] welfare was said to be crucial to the success of the company". Because of this success, Winston Salem's businesses, hospitals, orphanages, and colleges "flourished. On July 30, 1918, The Winston Salem Journal wrote: "The city's civic, religious, and social institutions advanced with the growth of the tobacco company. The triumph of Prince Albert and Camel cigarettes caused factories to spring up all over the city, and attracted thousands of new people. By the time of his death in 1918, R.J. Reynolds had brought prosperity to an entire region of North Carolina.

The Birth of Reynolds

In 1899, Katharine Smith told her college roommate, "When I marry, I shall go to Europe on my wedding trip and I shall bring home a wonderful work of art. And then I shall buy a great estate and I shall have a thousand cattle on a hill and flowers all around. In 1905, R.J. married Katharine, and after collaborating with multiple architects and landscapers for years, she built her estate and called it Reynolds, using the feminine suffix. She bought a piece of "desolate and eroded" land in 1906 and hired landscape engineers to sculpt the lake, gardens, and. She also hired architect Charles Barton Keen for the village, farm buildings, and home. Her name alone was on all of the deeds, which was very rare in that time period.

Katharine and R.J. Reynolds completed Reynolds Manor in 1917. Two generations of Reynolds lived on the 1,067 acre estate until it was opened to the public in 1965. According to a 1916 edition of Good Housekeeping, R.J. Reynolds's study is "the kind of substantial comfort that appeals to big men, with big interests in life, who come here to argue over big things. Though R.J. Reynolds only lived a few months in his study, this insight proved to be true. Just six days before he died of what is now believed to be pancreatic cancer, R.J. Reynolds signed $240,000 to build two hospitals, one black and one white, with an equal amount of money. This contribution, the first of its kind from a southern man, finalized the view of R.J. Reynolds as “one of the most democratic of citizens.

At the center of the house, the reception hall was a “large space that contained a front entryway, main stairway, fireplace” and enough furniture to comfortably accommodate the family and. It was an essential to a country home, and as Nancy Reynolds recalled in the 1920s, “Everything that happened in the house had to circulate in and out of this room. You were right in the midst of everything”. In the corner of the hall is an Aeolian organ whose 2,566 pipes run behind the tapestries and through the ceiling, creating the ultimate surround sound. Katharine believed music had a power for relaxation and harmony, so the organ was used for funerals, weddings, and. Today the organ still has its original parts and is played a few times a week.

Katharine entertained many guests in the dining room and often had impromptu Sunday afternoon lunches with members of the community. Whoever sat at the head of the table could press a foot pedal to let the servants know when to bring the next course. Many famous and influential people dined in this room, such as President Woodrow Wilson’s Secretary of Navy, Josephus Daniels in 1918, and Edith Vanderbilt in 1922. President Harry S. Truman also attended a luncheon in the dining room. The food was cooked in a downstairs kitchen and transported upstairs using a dumbwaiter. John Carter was first R.J. Reynolds’s valet and served in the Reynolds house as the head butler for two generations. Nancy remembered Carter as bossy, “particularly after Mother died”... He’d tell us what to do, he ran the house, and that was it.

Katharine promoted the idea of a model farm in which people could “learn the benefits of soil analysis, crop rotation, and other progressive methods”. She encouraged everyone to produce their own food. A statewide call for clean milk prompted her to start the Reynolds Dairy, using grass fed cows whose udders were cleaned before and after milking. The Reynolds Dairy provided milk for the family, village, customers, and the lunchroom. As a plaque in the Reynolds House says, “model farms were not established to make a profit so much as to assist in upgrading rural life”.

Katharine oversaw the greenhouse and garden, dairy farm, and domestic staff in her quaint office after her husband died. In a letter to her friend Annie Jean Gash, she wrote on December 10, 1917, “The farm is flourishing now. I am acting superintendent and good management is beginning to tell”.

In June 1921, Katharine married the headmaster of her school, J. Edward Johnston. Though she was much older than him, Johnston still wanted a child of his own. Their first attempt, a daughter, was born premature and died. The second baby, a son, was a healthy boy but due to her poor health, Katharine died three days later of an embolism at the age of 44. The trustees managed the finances and the children were left in the care of their uncle Will Reynolds, “who hired a cousin-in-law Robert E. Lassiter and his wife to care for them at Reynolds”. Both of the girls went to art school in France and ended up settling in Greenwich Connecticut. Both of the boys had little interest in education and focused their attention instead on flying.

The Next Generations

While many in the Reynolds family went on to accomplish great things, Zachary “Smith” Reynolds, the youngest, left the world early with a bit of scandal. Just after his 18th birthday, he married the daughter of a textile tycoon, Anne Cannon in 1929. Shortly after the birth of their first child, he “flew his wife to Reno for her divorce”. Anne got a $1,000,000 settlement for herself and her daughter. A week later, Smith secretly married singer Elsbeth “Libby” Holman and did not announce his marriage until May of 1932 when they returned from a tour of Europe in his plane. The family did not take too kindly to a second hasty marriage. On July 6, Smith and Libby threw a party for their friends at Reynolds, and Smith was found shot dead in the master bedroom sleeping porch. When Libby was indicted for murder, it was discovered that she was pregnant. She was released from custody, and to this day Smith’s death remains a mystery.

The Reynolds house came into the hands of the oldest daughter, Mary Reynolds Babcock, and her husband in 1934 when she bought the interests in Reynolds from the other heirs. Mary “managed the estate from a distance”, redecorating and renovating the house. She moved into the house when her husband enlisted in the Army for World War II and managed the expenses herself. In a letter to her sister in 1945 she confessed her concern about the future of Reynolds: “...I guess Reynolds will go on as is to live a longer life and end as an ancient ruin but with the charm of its homey atmosphere still there”. To “relieve some of the tax burden from the estate” Mary’s husband offered 350 acres to Wake Forest University, which kept the “house and gardens intact”. The family settled full time in Reynolds in 1948. Mary died in 1953 of cancer. She was 44 just like her mother.

Mary’s daughter, Barbara Babcock Millhouse, was in college studying art history when her mother died. After graduating, she began collecting art in New York as she studied design. In 1964, her husband established Reynolds House Inc., a “nonprofit organization that would build a collection of American art”. Barbara consulted with “curators of American art at The Metropolitan Museum of Art” who looked for paintings that best exemplified the work of significant American artists. The first paintings were from the Hudson River School style of painting, which was considered “embarrassing” in the 1960s. Barbara saw beyond that outlook and published a history of the art in that time period.

Today, Reynolds House serves as a museum that houses significant American artists. Many of the rooms have been restored to their original grandeur, as if Katharine and the children have just stepped away. Reynolds Village houses different shops and boutiques in buildings which used to house workers, equipment, and cows. The grounds are open for picnickers and hikers, and many events are still held in the expansive yard. Even though the Reynolds family no longer lives in Reynolds, they have ensured that the home that fostered so many dreams would continue serving the community R.J. and Katharine Reynolds built. The spirit of ‘others before self’ remains strong on the Reynolds estate.

84th FRA ANNUAL REUNION

For the first time in the history of the Association, a reunion was held in Texas, it having been decided at the 2013 meeting to hold the following year's gathering in Houston, thus enabling members from the west and Midwest to attend, therefore the Eighty Fourth Annual Reunion of the Reynolds Family Association was held at The Hampton Inn & Suites, Houston Medical Center/Reliant Park near the Clayton Library for Genealogical Research in Houston, Texas, on September 18th, 19th and 20th, 2014.

We ordered some rain and cooler weather for our Northern visitors so that the Texas Heat wouldn't get to them, however the afternoon of the 18th through the 19th, Houston experienced flash flooding, some of the worse ever for the month of September.

This not only caused some of our members delays in arriving at the meetings, a few had to cancel altogether. Despite the weather those attending agreed that a good time was had by all.

Thursday the 18th was spent meeting each other, exchanging stories, and welcoming our new members. Thursday night most agreed to go to dinner together where we continued our fellowship.

Friday morning we enjoyed two wonderful guest speakers, Susan D. Kaufman, Manager of the Clayton Library Center for Genealogical Research gave a wonderful, fun and educational program on "Unusual Sources...or...this is some really cool stuff". Sue also talked using the Clayton Library for Genealogical Research effectively.

Jeannette Piecznski, a professional genealogist, lecturer and author brought us a program entitled "iGenealogy: The Good and Bad of Internet Genealogy", I think everyone in attendance learned something helpful about genealogy searches on the Internet.

Friday afternoon, almost everyone, went to the Clayton Library Center for Genealogical Research where we not only toured the library but also had time for individual research. Everyone returned tired, but seemingly happy.

Friday night at our "No Host" Dinner at Luby's was a big success not only a great meal, but we wound up staying 30 minutes after closing time chatting and planning.

The Board Meeting was then called to order at 10:00 a.m. on September 20, 2014 by RFA President Joe Reynolds. The first order of business was a video by Reverend John Allen Reynolds, Sr. a new RFA member from Orange City, Florida, who offered a prayer to open our meeting: <http://www.reynoldsfamily.org/chaplain.php>

Next was a recording of the Reynolds Family Hymn provided by RFA Member Michael Eugene Reynolds, Decatur, Illinois: <http://www.reynoldsfamily.org/hymn.php>.

After hearing reports from our Vice Presidents, Secretary, and Treasurer, we discussed old and new business as well as elected officers. The 2014 Annual Report will be available shortly to give all information on these officers and a detailed breakdown on the Reunion itself.

I am looking for volunteers to help set up our 85th Annual Reunion in 2015. The location and dates have not been set so if you can help in any way please let me know.

If there is not enough interest then we can simply hold the Board Meeting by telephone and forget the Annual Reunion.

HOUSEKEEPING

Don't forget to send in your changes of address or email.

QUERIES

Upon writer request members' queries will be published without charge and non-members' will be published at discretion of RFA, also without charge.
