FOREWORD

In the making this publication, many people assisted the editors. All the membership is indebted to Mrs. Dorothy Jellinghaus our Executive Secretary and Mr. Al Rebholz our President for their help, support and guidance. Many other members contributed articles and information. To all of these kind people we extend our thanks.

In any undertaking of this nature, the editors must rely upon the persons who contribute data. While we have taken care to eliminate any information that we know to be in error, we have not the facilities nor the time to verify all information as to factuality. Therefore, the information presented in this work is presented without claim as to accuracy by the editors. Individual contributors who are listed for each article should be considered as the source for any questions which may arise.

The principal immigrants of whom the Association have record are:

Christopher Reynolds, VA 1622
Christopher Reynolds of Bermuda
Robert Reynolds of Boston 1630
James Reynolds of N. Kingston, RI before 1643
John Reynolds of Watertown, MA, Greenwich, CT 1634
John and Naomi (Latimer) Reynolds, Wethersfield, CT 1660
John Reynolds of Weymouth, MA before 1663
Henry Reynolds of Chichester, Pa 1676
Reynolds Family of Anne Arundel Co., MD 1655

TO THE MEMBERS OF OUR ASSOCIATION:

For many years prior to the Reynolds Family Association being organized, our ancestors played an important role in the history of our country. We can be proud of our heritage and through each of us, and the RFA, it will continue to carry on through the years.

This past year has been most exciting and eventful, with many things presently going on and those yet to come. Our membership continues to grow and we should make every effort to assure that this trend continues, since it is a responsibility shared by all.

I would like to acknowledge and extend the RFA's gratitude to the Officers, Board Members and the Co-ordinators of all the various lines of the Association successful. Also to Mrs. Dorothy Jellinghaus, our Executive Secretary-Treasurer, who gives so much of her time to answer the many inquiries, business affairs and over-all Association matters.

We were deeply saddened by the recent death of our Executive Vice-President, Robert B. Reynolds, Sr., of Harding, PA.

It is my hope that the coming year proves to be most inspiring for all of us, with positive results from our devoted efforts to make the Reynolds Family Association an even better organization and one of which our descendants can be most proud.

Albert E. Rebholz, Jr.

Greetings:

Your Secretary/Treasurer has held office since the reorganization took place back in 1975 at the Winterthur Estate in Greenville and has appreciated the help and assistance of the other officers and has enjoyed the correspondence with the many members of the RFA. The organization has grown from a small group to some two hundred and seventy families and singles.

This past two years two of our members, Linwood and Marcy Smith, of El Paso, Texas, have been extremely busy in their endeavor to put out four newsletters entitled "Reynolds Recollections" in which they combined organization news, queries from members, encouraging members to help each other in their genealogical searching, and other related news. We are all very grateful to them for their help. Lin is a Continental Airline pilot; Marcy busy with young children and active in DAR. Lin is of the James of Kingstown lines -- several in fact; and Marcy is tracing her ancestry to Christopher of Virginia.

Work has progressed on the compilation of material for the next annual covering this period, with the Smiths using their computer and skillful planning. It is expected this annual will be available at our Reunion meeting Oct. 8, 1983.

Dorothy Jellinghaus

REYNOLDS

The name Reynolds* is of Norman origin and comes from a family of Renard. "Burke's Landed Gentry" states family of Reynolds is of great antiquity claiming descent from Reynolds' son of Grethferth the Dane, King of North Cumberland, who was driven from England with two sons, A.D. 944, and took refuge in Normandy. His descendant Reynolds, Fitz Reynolds, (Fitz meaning son of or more commonly Illegitimate son of) returned to England with William, Duke of Normandy, known as William the Conqueror in 1066 and was in the battle of Hastings.

The Reynolds line is to be found through all the different reigns and kingdoms of England. The name Reynolds means son of Reynold, the original being Rainhold, a Teutonic name of great antiquity. Rainholdur or Rainhold, was a landholder in Exeter, Devonshire, generally admitted to come from the old German Reginold. The name Runnel is a Scotch term meaning a small brook or riverlet, although this originated from the English Reynolds. Many families in Ireland bear this name.

THE REYNOLDS COAT OF ARMS

The Reynolds Coat of Arms, used by this Association, is a reproduction of one on the tombstone in Bristol, R.I., of the line of Robert Reynolds, of Boston. It represents three foxes on the shield, with a fox as a crest. The family was originally Norman-French, the name, a corruption of Renard, or Renaud (French) or Reynard (English) which is "fox."

The use of the three foxes on the escutcheon, or shield, instead of one, is a repetition, which is usual in such matters, as witness the three leopards (not lions as is popularly supposed) on the Coat of Arms of England, the three lilies of France, and numerous other similar examples. The use of the Coat of Arms, for actual identification of a family, or tribe, was common in former ages, and in battle, to distinguish a friend from an enemy, while encased in armor.

The name Rothchild was derived from their insignia, literally, a red shield. Shakespeare's Arms bears a spear upon it, etc.

The fact that our shield is so design, with no quarterings or incorporation of other families, as was customary when important families intermarried, shows that we were plain folk, and this is also indicated by the helmet which is a Squire's - being faced to the left, while a Knight is faced toward the front.

There were none of the old stock in any of the Reynolds family lines, but were both respectable and respected, patriotic and law abiding. The colors of the shield and foxes indicate our French extraction, filtered through England, since the time of William the Conqueror; there were five Renards that are on the Battle Abbey list of France.

The background or body of the shield is French blue; it is a law of Heraldry that color must not go on color, or metal on metal, but one upon the other. The choice of either silver or gold for the foxes is optional; the latter, however, is considered most desirable.

The Reynolds Coat of Arms, painted in appropriate permanent colors, by a skilled artist in Heraldry may be purchased from the Secretary of the R.F.A., by any of the members for $5. including postage. The Crest is 8 1/2 X 11.

ALL IN THE FAMILY

by Eben W. Keyes, II
(William of Plymouth line)

I've just spent the whole day with my forebears,
In a book made by kin in ought-three,
First the greats, then the great-greats, then more pairs
Of parents of parents of me;
Some lived all their lives in the old land,
Some crossed the Atlantic for pelf,
Some founded a new and untold land,
And all of them founded myself.

As I studied those stern, solemn faces,
And read of their cold, careful lives,
I was struck by an absence of graces,
Of humor, of whimsey, of drives.
They didn't get drunk or read raw books,
Or have a quick fling in the pines;
There's an aura of ledgers and law books,
And a lacking of roses and wines.

Where's the gent with his eyes crossed, and grinning?
Where's a lady with leaves in her hair?
Or a couple caught lustily sinning?
Alas, I'm to none of them heir.
No ship-launching Helens, no Hectors,
No gallant and doomed Cavaliers;
They all look like customs inspectors,
Though they span over three hundred years.

They knew they were heaven's anointed,
As they knelt every Sunday to pray,
And they must have been quite disappointed
That so few were so righteous as they;
When they mused, it was chiefly on chickens,
When they dreamt, it was mainly of corn...
Then they did the Lord's Work like the dickens,
And another pink forebear was born.

When my life grows unkempt and frenetic,
And there's too much piled up on my plate,
I'm convinced that my qualms aren't genetic--
My line is so thoroughly straight.
So up-tight, so upright and hearty,
That I don't think I'd much like to be
Stuck in chit-chat with them at a party...
But then, I don't think they'd like me.

MINUTES OF THE FIFTY FOURTH REUNION
OF THE REYNOLDS FAMILY ASSOCIATIONOctober 30, 1976
Howard Johnson Motor Lodge
Wheaton, Maryland

While the group attending this first meeting in many years to reactivate the RFA was a small one, it was an enthusiastic and dedicated core of what we hope is going to be an active Reynolds family association. We met about 3 P.M. to exchange greetings and were served tempting refreshments by President Bob and Mrs. Reynolds.

The Secretary, Dorothy Jellinghaus, reported that over 100 invitations had gone out based on a mailing list of 1952, but only about forty replies came back from RFA kin who expressed interest but could not make this meeting. Many letters came back with notations "deceased", unknown." A number of the younger generation seemed interested and this is a good sign.

Mr. Laurist Reynolds of Avon, Mass., former President of the RFA, regretted he could not attend but he sent the Association four hard back copies of the John of Watertown hard back book which he has in his file. These copies will be available while they last to Association members for $15.

Col. Stephen F. Tillman and Mrs. Tillman were unable to make the dinner much to our disappointment. A discussion of the Tillman book followed. This is the book brought out in 1962 covering the Southern Lines and including in part at least some of the New England lines published by the RFA. Few of these books are available at this time except reprints.

The President reported the meeting two years ago in Wilmington, Delaware, at Winterthur when the RFA was re-organized with temporary officers Lt. Col. Robert J. Reynolds of Stow, Ohio, as President; Mr. Laurist Reynolds of Avon, Mass., past President of the RFA, as Vice President, and Mrs. Norman (Dorothy) Jellinghaus, Secretary and Treasurer. It was unanimously moved, seconded and passed that these officers continue, with the addition of a number of vice presidents and consultants.

Recommended for Vice Presidents were - Line
Lt.Col. John F. Reynolds of Westerly, RI (VA)
Mr. James M. Edwards, Decatur, Georgia
Mrs. Calvin E. Chunn, Fair Oaks, Cal. (John of Watertown)
Mr. Paul Garrison, Oklahoma City, Ok. (Virginia)

The above recommendation was put into a motion which was seconded and passed, with Mr. Garrison electing for the present to be a family consultant. Mr. Garrison is Executive Director of the Garrison Family Association.

It was moved, seconded carried that the dues per family be assessed at $5 per year.

The Executive Group will meet Feb. 12th at the same place in Wheaton for another meeting to formulate further plans. All are welcome.

MINUTES OF REYNOLDS FAMILY ASSOCIATION MEETING
HOWARD JOHNSON MOTOR LODGE, WHEATON, MD, FEB. 12, 1977

ATTENDING: Bob and Alice Reynolds of Stow, Ohio
Calvin Chunn of Fair Oaks, California
Paul Garrison of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma
Dorothy Jellinghaus of Wilmington, Delaware, and her guest
Lou Flomerfelt of Wilmington, Delaware

We met around 5 p.m. for fellowship and refreshment. Dorothy Jellinghaus told of the phone call from John Reynolds of Westerly, R.I. last night and his regret at not being able to be with us at this meeting because of a serious reaction of a drug in his present treatment. All were most sympathetic and expressed the hope that his health would be improved and he could be with us at our next get-together.

The Secretary also reported a letter from Bob Reynolds of Alexandria sending his dues but regretting his absence due to his inability to drive at night. No response from L. W. Reynolds of Avon, Mass.

Mr. Garrison reported calling the Tillmans to check if they were coming over at least for the dinner but again they could not make it.

During the Fellowship Hour Bob Reynolds reported that Dr. Jim Edwards of Decatur could not come tonight but had sent in his genealogy and dues. He said if an application form was prepared and copies sent him, he would distribute them in his area and try to get some publicity for the RFA meeting to follow the next meeting of the SAR at Dunfry's Royal Coach in Atlanta on Saturday, June 4th, though he himself could not attend that meeting as he has a previous commitment to be in Mississippi June 4th. There seemed some question as to whether this RFA could be arranged at that time especially since the National SAR meeting will be in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, June 25 to 29th. Bob Reynolds stated that this would be a good time to try and get the mid-West Reynolds included in a meeting. At this meeting Calvin Chunn will be installed as Genealogical Registrar of the SAR.

Some discussion followed about the five generation family genealogical sheets we have been using and it was decided we go back to the longer forms we originally used and these can be obtained from the Everton Publishers. The Secretary was asked to obtain these to go with the application letter and also to check on further helpful data from them.

At this point we adjourned to go to dinner at the nearby Steak House.

About 7:00 P.M. the meeting re-convened and the Secretary read minutes of the meeting on Oct. 30th which were approved as read. The Treasurer's Report was then distributed. The Secretary suggested that an amount be drawn from the Special Interest Saving Account of the RFA and put in a checking account for the RFA. There would be no charge for these checks and it should be done. While the account is in the Wilmington Trust Company, both the President and the Secretary have access to both checking and saving accounts.

The Secretary reported on various correspondence she has had with former members of the association who are interested in knowing that it is being reactivated. Several requests for the John of Watertown book have been received. This formerly sold for $15 but it was agreed that the price should now be $20 since the copies are limited. A telephone call from a former member who lived in Elkton and was for 50 years in charge of elementary education and now resides in Maine, informed the Secretary of a RFA group now operating and holding annual reunions and covering the territory Boston to Maine. This is mostly the Robert Reynolds of Boston line. Also another RFA group meets regularly in Ohio. This line may tie in with the John of Pennsylvania line. There is also an RFA group operating in Salt Lake City and with whom I hope to establish contact.

Another interesting response came from a Helen G. Bain of Falmouth, Mass. who is of the James of Kingston line. This is the line of our President and also Secretary. She has offered to perfect and complete her branch and work with the Secretary.

Some discussion followed on the Southern lines. The Secretary has found some information on Reynolds in Kentucky, Tennessee and other states. Possibly Jack Reynolds may be able to work on some of these leads or offer some suggestions. More than likely they are included in the later Tillman book.

The President offered to get cards printed with the name of the RFA.

The Secretary reported fourteen paid memberships and since writing these minutes, she is happy to report four more have come in.

At about 9:30 when the business in hand was completed, Mr. President brought forth the champagne and those present enjoyed more fellowship.

Respectfully submitted,
Dorothy C. Jellinghaus, Secretary and Treasurer, 2/17/77

MINUTES OF THE 47TH ANNUAL REUNION MEETING OFF THE REYNOLDS
FAMILY ASSOCIATION IN WILMINGTON, DELAWARE JUNE 17, 1978

The forty-seventh reunion meeting of the RFA, originally founded in 1891(1892) at Lyme, Connecticut, met Saturday, June 17, 1978, with thirty-two members and several guests present. They came from Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island, to the lovely home of the Whitney Reynolds Adams'.

After registration and fellowship, President Bob Reynolds welcomed everyone and asked his Executive Vice President Jack Reynolds to lead a salute to the flag, after which the Rev. James O. Reynolds of Warwick, Maryland, offered a blessing and everyone partook of a delicious luncheon and more fellowship.

At the meeting which followed on the terrace of the Adams' lovely home the President expressed the thanks of the officers and the members to the Adams' for their hospitality and to those who came to the meeting from far away places. He told how gratified he and the other officers were with the enthusiastic response of those who came and the regrets of many who could not make it today but expressed their deep interest and pledged their continuing support. He introduced the officers who had been selected by the Executive Committee to get the RFA going again, regain the small funds in the Unclaimed Funds Div. in the State of New York, and necessary to proceed with the incorporation of the RFA which has been accomplished through the efforts of Mr. William Glasgow Reynolds, a Wilmington member of the Christopher line of Virginia and Kentucky, and a member of the Delaware Bar.

The present officers are --

President - Lt. Col. Robert J. Reynolds, Stow, Ohio,
James of Kingston, RI

Exec. V.P. - Lt. Col. John F. Reynolds, Westerly, RI
Christopher, Va. and S.C.

Dr. & Mrs. Calvin Chunn, Sacramento, CA, (newly elected national pres. of the SAR) Watertown

Sec. Treas. - Mrs. Norman K. Jellinghaus, Wilmington,
Delaware - James of Kingston, RI

The President introduced Mrs. Jellinghaus, who reported on some of the delays and later success in reorganizing, and our attendance today of thirty-two members and an overall membership of around sixty three. She mentioned the vast amount of correspondence she has had with members of the various lines and the help she has been able to give in certain cases from the RFA publications and unprinted material in the files. She especially thanked Vice President Jack Reynolds for his help in taking over some of the research on the Southern lines and also the correspondence pertaining to those inquiries, and also thanked Whitney Reynolds Adams of the Robert of Boston line for similar help he has given her in handling inquiries of that line.

The President introduced Dr. Samuel R. N. Reynolds of Doylestown, PA, a long time member of the former RFA, who told of his line, the Henry Reynolds of first Burlington, NJ and then Chichester of Pennsylvania and later Cecil County, Maryland. He had many interesting stories of whose early settlers who came here with William Penn back in 1675. His ancestor, Henry Reynolds married Prudence Clayton, the daughter of the man Penn chose as his first mayor of Burlington, N. J. when the group first arrived. He told of research in England on both families and of the noble lines from which they came.

Then Mrs. Benjamin Reynolds of Avondale, Pa., whose deceased husband was of the Chichester line, told of her husband's great interest in American history, the RFA, and how she and her three sons and other members of his family want to continue that interest. She introduced the two sons who accompanied her to the meeting, John 15 and Warren 17 and both were delighted to meet kinsmen they didn't know they had. Warren then read a paper he had prepared on the activities of his father who had been a former State Representative in Pa., a member of the Cehster Historical Society, a dairy farmer and very active in agricultural ecology.

Col. John F. Reynolds, our Executive Vice President, then told of his research abroad last year in England checking on ancestors of his Christopher Reynolds of Virginia, the Reynolds Crest and how he hoped to go back again to dig deeper. He also told some interesting "Reynolds tales" which we hope to put in one of our newsletters at a later time.

The President then called on our host, Whitney Reynolds Adams, who told of his own research on his own line - Robert of Boston and how much he had done on his line through his discovery of the RFA Annuals and books at the Pennsylvania Historical Society in Philadelphia long before he ever knew about the RFA reorganization. He told how much he enjoyed doing the research and also work on merging lines, particularly the female lines which in early times had been overlooked by many genealogists. He had completed research back fifteen generations and had brought along some very interesting charts which would be on display after the meeting.

Carroll Reynolds of Westfield, Indiana, of the Christopher of Virginia line, spoke briefly saying he was a newcomer to genealogy but found it most interesting and was delighted to know that there was an active group of Reynolds and he and his wife enjoyed being there.

Since it was getting late and photographers were buzzing around to take pictures before some had to leave, the meeting adjourned after talk of next year's meeting possibly at the Officers' Club in Newport, R. I. and tentatively set for the early part of September.

Mrs. Dorothy C. Jellinghaus, RFA Executive Secy./Treas.

MINUTES OF THE REYNOLDS FAMILY ASSOCIATION MEETING HELD IN PROVIDENCE, R.I., HOLIDAY INN, ON SEPTEMBER 8, 1979

The 48th Annual Reunion of the RFA was attended by 72 members and friends. The meeting was called to order by President, Lt.Col. Robert J. Reynolds, and the Invocation given by Walter R. Martin, Governor General of The Society of Descendants of the Colonial Clergy. A pledge of Allegiance to the flag of the U.S. was led by Executive Vice President, Lt.Col. John F. Reynolds, after which greetings were extended to the group by Mayor Cianci of Providence, who welcomed the members and presented to them an official Certificate of the City proclaiming September 8, 1979 as Reynolds Family Association Day in Providence. Pres. Reynolds then awarded Mayor Cianci a copy of the RFA Revolutionary Soldier Annual (1916) for the City of Providence Historical Society.

President Bob Reynolds then gave a short history of the rebirth of the RFA and its continued growth. He suggested having volunteers, who felt experienced in their genealogies, to offer help to those searching for "roots" in their respective lines. He mentioned the help Whitney Adams had given the Secretary in her big job of handling the many inquiries coming in, and that Steve Reynolds of the Kingstown line, and who is a Vice President, was doing genealogical searching on his line and helping others.

Some discussion followed as to the next meeting place. Members request meeting in the north and the south and east and west but it has seemed practical to plan it where we can hope to get the most members to come. Suggestions along this line are welcome.

Exec. V.P. Jack Reynolds was introduced by Bob who praised him for the great job he has done on the advertising and promotion of this meeting. Jack told of his great pleasure in having so many present at this meeting and described the earlier meetings when the original re-organizers (about seven in all), were trying so hard to get the RFA going again.

The executive Sec'y. and Treasurer, Dorothy Jellinghaus, then spoke of her great pleasure in seeing so many here and in meeting face to face those members with whom she has carried on a mail friendship and tried to help in some way answer their genealogical questions as to "where I fit in?". It has been a gratifying experience to have been able to hear from folks in far off places as Arizona and Illinois and California and help tie them in with their early New England ancestors, who in some cases were original organizers of the RFA and held executive posts.

Lists of publications and books by the RFA were available and membership lists and could be procured before or after the luncheon free to members. Certain books, annuals and reprints of the 1916 and 1922 Annuals were for sale as well as copies of the Reynolds' Crest. She mentioned the wonderful chart Whitney Adams had made of his descendants through Ruth, eldest daughter of Robert of Boston, who married John Whitney, showing all the lines mentioned in Marion Reynolds' book and which was on display in the room. Historical and genealogical libraries around the country have many of the Reynolds publications and are most willing to help searchers find their material.

Volunteers who came forward to act for their lines were Jack Reynolds of the Christopher of Virginia line, and who had said earlier he understood so well the difficulties of some of the Southern lines to tie in with the earlier lines because of the burning of so many of their early records. Steve Reynolds For the Kingstown line and other R.I. lines where possible; Tom Reynolds of Iowa for the Killingsly line; Albert Rebholz of Morton Ill. for the Norwich, Conn. line; and Whitney Adams for the Robert of Boston line. After the meeting adjourned, Mrs. Edmund de Mattia, and her brother Lloyd V. Beebe, offered their services as coordinators of the Weymouth line. The secretary called attention to Mrs. Kermit Bain who has done extensive genealogical searching on her own lines connecting in to Watertown and Kingstown, and who offered her help to the Secretary on those lines.

Jack Reynolds spoke again referring to the need of a new Constitution and the President appointed him Chairman of that committee and called for volunteers to confer with Jack.

The speaker of the day was Mr. Stewart Reynolds Essex of Narragansett, R.I., President of the Reynolds Family Cemetery Association, which was incorporated back in 1903, when Thomas A. Reynolds, son of William, Jabez, Jabez, Francis and James, the first of Kingstown, R.I., endowed the Association with his own funds for its permanent care. This family group meets regularly every year and Mr. Essex's daughter and her family live in a house on the land of the original tract of land owned by that family. (Reports on this line in RFA Annuals 1906 and 1922.)

Because of the lateness of the day and with photographers trying to get pictures of everyone, the President called for the meeting to adjourn. The present officers agreed to stay in office another year but all to come back to next year's meeting.

Respectfully,
Dorothy C. Jellinghaus

MINUTES OF THE REYNOLDS FAMILY ASSOCIATION AT THE BUSINESS MEETING OCTOBER 5, 1980 AT SEAMAN'S INN, MYSTIC, CONNECTICUT

Following registration and fellowship of seventy-six members and friends of the Reynolds Family Association, the Mystic Inn served a delicious dinner. Between courses President Bob Reynolds welcomed all to the gathering, thanking the Beebes' (Lloyd and Ada) and the deMattias' (Ethel and Ed) for their time and effort in taking charge and making all the arrangements for the get-together. He regretted the absence of Mrs. Kermit Bain of South Yarmouth, Mass., who had gone to great lengths to prepare the Workshop and then was prevented from coming because of the serious illness of her husband. He announced the literature was available to members giving hints on how to find that missing link on the family tree.

The first order of business was to call for a slate of officers for next year. Steve Reynolds was nominated for President but declined saying he preferred to continue as V. Pres. and as Coordinator of the James of Kingstown, R.I. line. After some gentle persuasion Bob Reynolds agreed to continue as President "just one more year."

Exec. V.P. Jack Reynolds then spoke of his poor health and that he thought he should resign his office but would be glad to be Chairman of the Trustees and also to continue as Chairman of the constitution and By-Laws Revision Committee.

Executive Secretary and Treasurer Dorothy Jellinghaus spoke of the growth of the RFA and the heavy correspondence and duties her job entailed but praised those RFA members who have been so helpful in coordinating material on specific lines- Whitney Adams, Steve Reynolds, Al Rebholz, Millie Reynolds, Tom Reynolds, Dr. Samuel Reynolds, and many others. She thanked the Beebes' and the deMattias' for their help in arranging the meeting on this day and help with Weymouth line. Lloyd was suggested as a Vice Pres. but preferred to stay as line (Weymouth) coordinator and publicity. Ethel agreed to assist the Secretary and to be known as Corresponding Sec'y. She was nominated and duly elected as Corresponding Secretary. Dorothy was voted in again for a year.

Al Rebholz was nominated then to take Jack Reynolds' place as Executive Vice President and he agreed. He spoke of his great interest in the RFA and family genealogy.

It was agreed to continue the current dues of $5 per family for another year.

The speaker was then introduced by Mrs. deMattia- Mrs. John H. Goodman, historian and well known columnist of the area, who spoke on the perils of living in "Stonington in the 17th Century" a most interesting informative subject.

A special guest was Mrs. Elliot Daniels, a sister of the former Marion H. Reynolds, the author and compiler of so many of the RFA books and annuals, who spoke briefly of her visit today and her great interest and that of her family in the RFA.

The meeting adjourned for more fellowship, picture taking and interviews with reporters, all saying Mystic was a delightful place to be at this season.

Respectfully submitted,
Dorothy Jellinghaus

MINUTES OF THE REYNOLDS FAMILY ASSOCIATION BUSINESS MEETING
October 11, 1981 at the SEAMEN'S INN, MYSTIC, CONNECTICUT

Around 10 A.M. members of the RFA Staff and Chairman of the Meeting, Lloyd Beebe, his wife Ada, his Sister, Ethel deMattia, Corresponding Sec'y., and her husband, Ed, and other members of their family, arrived at the Inn to set up exhibits, books and other family mementos and to mark tables for the various lines. Members began arriving around 11 A.M., partook of refreshment and a happy fellowship time followed until 1 P.M. when dinner was announced in the very attractive dining room adjacent. Some eighty members and guests were present and were welcomed by Pres. Elect Al Rebholz who was officiating in the absence of President Bob Reynolds of Stow, Ohio.

David Wertz of Centermoreland, Pa., a guest of Bob Reynolds of Harding, Pa., and a licensed Lay Reader of the Methodist Church, gave the blessing. With good music in the background, a delicious dinner typical of The Seamen's Inn was served and in between courses, Dorothy Jellinghaus introduced special guests, and new members some of whom came across the country to be with us for the first time.

Following dinner, Pres. Elect Al Rebholz called the meeting to order and asked Steve Reynolds, V.P., to read a letter received from Pres. Bob Reynolds who very much regretted he could not be with us at this time meeting because of unavoidable circumstances but sent his best to everyone. The letter continued that he recommended that Al Rebholz who had been Executive V. P. for the past year, be nominated as President for the coming year. Al asked if this was in order and when a motion was made and seconded that he be named President, it was done and the vote unanimous. Al spoke of his great interest in the RFA, his own genealogy which he has completed - his Reynolds' line connecting with the RFA hard back blue book "The John Reynolds Family of Norwich, Conn." and his pleasure in being made President.

President Rebholz told of the Staff meeting held the preceding day when a slate of officers was proposed as follows:

Steve Reynolds continue as V.P. and Coordinator for the James Reynolds of Kingstown, R.I. line.

Dorothy Jellinghaus to continue as Executive Secretary/Treasurer for another year. She spoke of her willingness to transfer her duties to others and she had two possibilities on which she reported to the Staff at yesterday's meeting but neither could come to this year's meeting. She has arranged for another member, Peggy Chadwick, an accountant, to audit the RFA books for the past year.

It was moved and seconded that both Steve and Dorothy stay in their jobs for the coming year and the vote was unanimous.

Ethel deMattia agreed to continue in her post as Corresponding Secretary and Dorothy thanked her for the RFA and the great help she has been.

Pres. Rebholz next spoke of our pleasure in having one of our members present, Col. John F. Reynolds, Chairman of the Board of Directors, who has had a very bad year health-wise, but managed to make it here at the Staff meeting yesterday and at today's meeting. Jack asked to be relieved of his duties as Chairman of the Board and as Chairman of the Constitution Committee because of his health but would help as he could on the Constitution Committee and research on the Christopher Reynolds of Virginia line. Al asked if he would consider being Vice Chairman of the Board of Directors and he readily agreed. He also agreed to serve on the Constitution Revision Committee. Pres. Al further suggested that former President Bob Reynolds be named Chairman of the Board of Directors. All were in agreement on this.

Al spoke of his desire to have any members interested in serving in some capacity on the Staff or on a committee to feel free to communicate with him or one of the other officers.

Pres. Al then introduced a member of the RFA who has been prevented from attending any of our earlier meetings because of his health but was there today and he would like to nominate him for the post of Executive Vice Pres. He is Robert B. Reynolds of Harding, Pa. and a descendant of the James of Kingstown, R.I. line, which went into the Plymouth Valley, Pa. area. (See RFA Annual 1927/1928.) He has been engaged in Genealogy research for many years and Mrs. Jellinghaus told of the help he has given her on leads in his area. Al proposed that Bob of Harding become our next Executive Vice Pres. The vote was unanimous and Bob expressed his pleasure in being there, meeting his Reynolds kinsmen and thanking the RFA for giving him the honor and his willingness to serve the RFA. He, in turn, introduced another new member of his line, Thomas George Reynolds of Golden, Colorado, who along with his son, Thos. Gordon Reynolds of Winchester Canal, Ohio, became interested in completing their genealogy and joined the RFA this past year and also brought in several members of their family. Bob recommended he Tom George Reynolds be nominated for some special post and spoke of his interest in publishing or helping in some related capacity. Pres. Al suggested he serve on the publication committee to which he agreed.

Dorothy Jellinghaus, Exec. Sec'y./Treas. reported 76 new member families or individuals giving us a membership of around 350. She appreciated the help given her by Ethel deMattia in getting out the newsletters and dues notices. Also the help of Lloyd who has handled all the details of this reunion and last year's and the many new members coming from that Beebe line.

She spoke of the financial statement which was delivered at yesterday's Staff meeting which showed that expenses for the past year exceeded slightly income and because of this, it would be advisable that a motion be made to raise the dues, possibly to $10 per family. This was put into a motion by Pres. Al and passed unanimously, taking effect for 1983.

Dorothy, continuing her report, called attention to the Line Coordinators and her great appreciation of the work they have done for those members interested in their particular lines--

Whitney Reynolds Adams on the Robert of Boston and Hyatt lines.

Lloyd Beebe and Ethel deMattia on the Weymouth line.

Robert B. Reynolds on James of Kingstown (Harding, Factoryville and Plymouth Valley)

Stephen B. Reynolds on early Kingstown lines

Millie Reynolds and the Theodore Reynolds on Electius I, II, III.

Mrs. Kermit Bain on Watertown and Kingstown lines.

Wayne Reynolds on Watertown line.

Dorothy mentioned the many applicants for membership coming from the Southern lines which Jack Reynolds had been following in part before his eye troubles developed, have been handled in part by her, Stella Dillahunt of Georgia, but more help is needed.

There are many unpublished manuscripts on the Watertown lines as well as the same for the Henry of Chichester (Burlington, N.J. and Pa.) It is our hope to have more coordinators familiar with these lines to help in getting these lines in print if possible.

Dorothy spoke of the many genealogical and historical libraries around the country containing many of the RFA books and annuals, some of Tillman's books and a few the Runnels/Reynolds book of 1873. She also mentioned visiting the new Reynolds Wing in the Ft. Wayne Indiana Public Library which contains many of the RFA publications and also copies of the New England Genealogical Register which contains many of the RFA publications.

Milly Reynolds then asked if she could speak. Permission granted--she extended an invitation to the members to visit New Bedford for their next meeting and the Tom Reynolds' of Palo Alto also offered to assist her in hosting. A discussion of a meeting there in 1982 followed but no decision was reached.

Pres. Al next thanked Ethel deMattia and Lloyd Beebe and others who helped in arranging today's delightful meeting and then turned the program over to Ethel to present. In lieu of a speaker, Ethel had arranged for certain members to tell an interesting and perhaps "off the record" happening they came across in their family research.

Jack Reynolds started off saying he was from the Christopher Reynolds of Va. 1622. He mentioned hearing a story of a "Reynolds Island" somewhere off the coast of Long Island but has never confirmed it. He did find in the printed record the tale of a Virginia gal named Cecily Reynolds who caused the Va. Legislature to put their books back in the 1700's, and apparently it still stands, a statute making it unlawful for a woman to be engaged to two men at on time which is just what Cecily had done--one of them a minister too, and he sued her.

Whitney Adams of the Robert of Boston line, descended from the eldest daughter Ruth of Robert<sup>1</sup> who married John Whitney, spoke of the first home of this family on Milk Street in Boston, where later Benjamin Franklin was born.

Mrs. Lester Reynolds (Milly) told of her long search and also that of the Tom Reynolds of Palo, Iowa and other as to the background of the elusive Electus Reynolds I, II and III and their descendants. Just this week more hours were spent at the New England Genealogical Society and in the New Bedford, Mass. Library when they expected to tie up the loose ends, only to come across a "Charles" who might upset and certainly did shake that old family tree. They will continue the search.

Stewart Reynolds Essex of Narragansett, R.I. of the James, Francis, Jabez...R.I. Kingstown line, gave some interesting family history on how the first settlers in Quidnessett acquired their land and on which the first James Reynolds built his house and which land is still in possession of the family today. The first house was burnt by the Indians in King Philip's War in 1675. The second house was built and in 1730 when the family had swept the hearth and departed for their Friends' meeting house, and departed on horseback, looked back to see it in flames. In 1802 or 1803 the then owner, William of Jabez, Jabez, Francis and James, wanted a larger house so his house was built on an adjacent farm where it is still standing and in which Mr. Essex's daughter Judith and her family live today.

Dorothy Jellinghaus told of an interesting recent find in going through N.Y. State "Delinquent tax Records" which showed that notice had been given "A Mrs. Reynolds who owned and lived on Front Street, N.Y. June 24, 1791 with Robert Livingston and Thos. West as neighbors." Pencil comment added - "Probably the Mrs. Reynolds involved in a scandal with Alexander Hamilton."

Bob Reynolds of Harding, Pa., also of the Kingstown line which migrated into the Plymouth Valley, Pa. area, told of the brave Reynolds frontiersman who had lived with the Indians and became a famous Indian guide and served with General Custer and died with him in the bloody massacre at Wounded Knee in 1876.

There were more stories to be told but it was getting late. The President expressed the appreciation of all to Lloyd Beebe and his Committee for arranging such a delightful meeting and to Ethel deMattia and her family who assisted in making the RFA reunion so interesting and enjoyable.

A MEMORIAL SALUTE TO A GREAT LADY
ANNA FRANCIS CONGDON RIPPPIER
HISTORIAN, SECRETARY/TREASURER of the
REYNOLDS FAMILY ASSOCIATION FORTY YEARS

Written by her niece, Dorothy C. Jellinghaus, present Executive/Secretary/Treasurer of the RFA.

Through a chance meeting in a R. I. graveyard, probably around 1913/1914, while searching for her Congdon roots on one Benjamin Congdon, born 1650 in Portsmouth, R. I., Mrs. Rippier chanced to meet a friendly young man by the name of Marion Hobart Reynolds who was doing some genealogical searching for Reynolds' roots. He had several books in mind on this Reynolds clan and enthusiastically told her about The Reynolds Family Association founded back in 1892 and meeting annually. He told her he was sure her Congdon roots crossed the Reynolds' lines several times and he would check for her. This he did and, of course, she became a member of the RFA and became one of the Historians for the James of Kingstown line. Her descent is given at end of the article.

When Marion was in New York, he was a frequent visitor at the Rippier home and Mrs. Rippier assisted him in doing research in the New York Libraries and aided in the compilation of records of living generations of Reynolds. Marion published his books and she assisted him in the publication of the RFA annuals. In 1915 Marion left for London to become Private Secretary to The Right Hon. Sir Edgar Speyzer, Bart., P. C. of London, international banker. He resigned this post in 1918 to enter the Army. During this time Mrs. Rippier became more involved in RFA matters and the organization grew to some 600 members. After the Army, Marion worked for some years with the Port of Para Brazil and Amazon River Steam Navigation Companies and traveled abroad but he always maintained contact with the RFA and was at times (reunion meetings) a featured speaker, telling of his interesting experiences. Marion returned to NYC in 1921 to work for the Standard Oil Company but in 1929 was married and moved to California. After his return to the States, he was able to publish his books which are follows:

- Historical Collections (Kingstown, RI, Weymouth, CT, MD and some NC, TN and MS records) 1922
- History and Descendants of John and Sarah Reynolds (1630- 1923) of Watertown, MA, Wethersfield, Stamford and Greenwich, CT 1924
- The History and One Line of Descendants of Robert and Mary Reynolds (1630-1928) of Boston, Mass.- Robert and Mary and the Children of Nathaniel Reynolds, Jr. continuing to the Hyatt Princeton line 1928
- The History and Some of Descendants of Robert and Mary Reynolds, Boston 1931

Marion died in San Francisco March 31, 1937 leaving his widow and a son, Dr. Edgar S. Reynolds of Portland, Oregon and he is a supportive member of the RFA as is Marion's sister, Mrs. Esther Daniels of Florida, her daughter and grand daughter, and two brothers, Lincoln of Corvallis, Oregon and Kenneth of Orinda, California.

Following Marion's death and the great loss to the RFA, Mrs. Rippier, assisted by the officers, took over more of the work of the Association but the years following with the depression, second World War as well as the illness and deaths of many of the most active members and the prolonged illness of her husband, Mr. Rippier, caused a dropping off of interest in the reunions and helpers to produce the annuals. Thus the 1935-36-37 Annual was the last one published. After her husband's death, Mrs. Rippier came back to Germantown, Philadelphia, her former home, and tried to set up meetings and keep in touch with members. Crippled by neuritis, eye problems and finally diabetes, she was unable to carry on alone. She passed away in 1951 but before her death, had asked the writer to guard her records and files carefully until such time as the RFA resumed its meetings. Those records and files were brought to her home in a truck and the writer had at that time four young children. It was a long time before she ever really got into them.

The writer contacted the only Reynolds officer whose name she had. He was Laurist W. Reynolds of Brockton, Mass. and learned that he had been named president of the RFA in absentia. He knew little about the RFA except his grandfather may have suggested him for the office. He is of the Robert of Boston line. Together he and the writer planned a reunion meeting to be held in Plymouth, Mass. area - he to make the arrangements -- chicken barbecue on the beach, meeting to follow, and the writer agreed to send the notices. Several hundred were sent out but only about twenty acknowledged, and at the last minute, only about twelve could come. The meeting was postponed. The writer agreed to act as secretary pro tem until the regular meeting and did take care of inquiries and occasionally some dues came in which were duly banked and recorded.

In 1975 a telephone call from a former member, Robert J. Reynolds of Stow, Ohio, attending an SAR meeting in Washington, asked if a group could get together to plan a reorganization meeting. He and his wife, Alice, and Col. Robert Reynolds of Arlington, VA also SAR, came to Wilmington, Del. and met the writer for lunch at Winterthur, Delaware, got acquainted and laid the original plans.

For the record, Mrs. Rippier's genealogy and the writer's is:

1. James of Kingstown, R.I. m. Deborah
2. Henry Reynolds m. Sarah Greene
3. Henry Reynolds m. Mary Jenkins both of E. Greenwich, RI

OBITUARIES

Robert B. Reynolds of Harding, Pa. who was elected Executive Vice President at the last RFA meeting in Mystic, CT, suffered a massive heart attack and passed away April 1, 1982. He was a dedicated genealogist and an enthused officer of the RFA, sincerely interested in helping others find their roots. He left three son Bob, Jr., Martin and Edward Reynolds. Bob documented his line from James Reynolds of North Kingstown, RI through Stephen and Sarah Babcock Reynolds, Washington County, Nichols, N.Y. and Tioga County, Pa.

Lloyd V. Beebe of Moosup, CT, of the Weymouth line, did so much for the RFA in arranging the last two reunions held at Mystic, CT, and his death this past summer after triple-by-pass surgery was a great shock to his family and friends. Our sympathy goes to his wife Ada, who was his helper at our RFA meetings, and to his son and two daughters. His sister Ethel deMattia and he brought into the RFA many of their family line, which is reported in the 1922 RFA Annual.

Dr. Samuel R. N. Reynolds, formerly associated with the Department of Medicine, U. of Pennsylvania and the U. of Illinois, who was RFA Historian of the early generations of the Henry Reynolds' lines who first came to Burlington, NJ, later settling in Chichester, PA, with William Penn and his group of Quakers, suffered a stroke and passed away. His widow, Mary Louise Reynolds, who comes of a distinguished Delaware Clayton family also connected with William Penn's group, has agreed to act in his stead if she can help RFA members with their early lines. (See resume of talk Dr. Reynolds gave at our RFA meeting in the Minutes dated 17 June 1978.)

THE SUSAN EMILY REYNOLDS PARKER BIBLE OF TENNESSEE

The following Bible was copied and given to the Reynolds Family Association by Mrs. Mary E. Wagner of Cahokia, Illinois, a great grand daughter of Susan Emily Reynolds Parker and a member of the RFA since 1979.

The HOLY BIBLE, Containing the OLD and NEW TESTAMENTS, Translated Out of the Original Tongues; and with the Former Translations Diligently Compared and Revised. New York: AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY, Instituted in the Y....(torn page), 18...(torn page)

The NEW TESTAMENT of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, Translated out of The Original Greek, and with the Former Translations Diligently Compared and Revised. New York: AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY, Instituted in the Year MDCCCXVI, 1854.

Introduction: This Bible looks to be well used and marked by time. The records in this Bible are found on the pages for same between the OLD and NEW TESTAMENTS. There are four pages with the title "FAMILY RECORD" each having a border of double lines that encircle each page. The second and fourth pages are blank. On the page facing the title page is written Mr. E. O. Parker & Mrs. E. O. Parker and on another page is written "Emmett is my sweetheart".

A TRANSLATION OF OLD PAGES OF THE HENRY OF CHICHESTER LINE

Mrs. Barbara Barker of San Jose, California inherited the several handwritten pages plus an oil portrait. The manuscript pages are written in old scribe, the copies of the originals look old and water marked, they look to have been written by more than one person and are neither dated or signed. Mrs. Barker gave the RFA permit to publish with the understanding that the pages may not be "a good source".

(a) Immer could be Turner because of the old "I" and "T" look much alike and u, r, n, and m can be mistaken. The "er" is correct. After comparing the letters in other words, I believe the name most likely Immer.

(b) "our mother" is added in different handwriting and above the line.

The OLD TESTAMENT, Translated, out of The Original Hebrew, And with the Former Translations Diligently Compared and Revised, Together with the APOCRYPHA, Done by the Special Command of King James I. of England

INTRODUCTION: The Bible has 1074 pages plus a thick front and back cover. The front cover has become detached with the passing of years. The family records pages start at the ending of page 676. The Bible was saved by Sandra J. Elliott of Grand Rapids, Michigan when she found it at a Flea Market. The man she bought it from knew nothing of its origin. Ms. Elliott's only interest in this Bible was the preservation of a family's history.

Elizabeth B. Benton widow of Judge Charles S. Benton and mother of Charles R. Benton, in charge of the money order department of the local post office, died at her, 411 Vine St. at 8:45 Tuesday night at the age of 95 years.

Mrs. Benton was one of the Pioneer residents of La Crosse, having lived her(sic.) since 1856 with the exception of four years from 1865 to 1869, spent in Galesburg, Ill. and is believed to have been the oldest person in La Crosse.

She was born in Columbia, N.Y. March 2, 1828 and came to Milwaukee with her husband, Charles S. Benton in 1855. Mr. Benton for a year was interested in publication of the Milwaukee News with C. F. Huntsman and George B. Clason, and came to La Crosse with his wife in 1856 to become registrar of the United States Land Office here. While a resident of New York State, Col. Benton, as he was known there, served two terms in Congress.

Mr. Benton was elected County judge of La Crosse County in 1873 and served until 1880. He died in 1882.

The Benton family has lived since 1856 at the N.E. Corner of 4th and Vine Streets, a property which Mrs. Benton has owned all these years.

Mrs. Benton was a Daughter of the America Revolution and for many years was interested in the activities of the Womens Relief Corps. She joined the Episcopal Church in the early days and for a time was organist of this church. Despite her advanced age, Mrs. Benton was active about her home until recently when she suffered a fall, which developed complications and caused her death.

Surviving is one son, Charles R. Benton living at home, two nieces and a nephew in Great Rapids Michigan.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 from the home."

Under the clipping for Mrs. Benton was found a clipping on the death of Mary C. Babcock Abbott:

"Mary C. Babcock, wife of Henry G. Abbott, died at her home, 370 Genesee street, at 10 o'clock last evening. Mrs. Abbott had been an invalid for about ten years, but it was not until Christmas that she became dangerously ill. The deceased was a daughter of the late Dr. Charles Babcock. She was born in New Hartford March 11, 1820. She was married to Mr. Abbott in 1844, and for five years following they resided in Syracuse. Mrs. Abbott was a member of the First Presbyterian Church. She is survived by her husband and four children, Thomas A. and William P. Abbott, of St. Paul, Minn., and Mary Ella and Jennie H., of Utica. Mrs. Abbott was very generally esteemed and greatly beloved. She was intelligent, agreeable and a woman of beautiful character, who won and retained warm and abiding friendships. She was a link to one of the old families around which cluster so many pleasing recollections of the earlier days, and her entire life was in keeping with the courtesy, the kindness and the interest in the welfare of all which characterizes those well-remembered and honored pioneers."

THE REYNOLDS FAMILY OF RHODE ISLAND AND THE CEMETERY ASSOCIATION

by STEWART REYNOLDS ESSEX

September 8, 1979

Delivered to the members of the Reynolds Family Association of America in annual meeting at the Holiday Inn, Providence, Rhode Island.

Some accounts of the Reynolds family which settled in the British American Provinces are based on tradition, some on speculation, and some on historical records. Tradition has it that three brothers left England together between 1636 and 1640 and went to Bermuda and there separated. Christopher went to the Carolinas, William to New England and John remained in Bermuda. Tradition also has it that John's son John afterward settled in Pennsylvania. William of Providence is identified with William of Bermuda. Colonial records confirm that a William Reynolds came to Rhode Island in the second arrival of settlers at Providence on August 20, 1636. The records show that he agreed to pay two shillings and sixpence for ground and in 1638 received a deed from Roger Williams.

Anna C. Rippier, writing in the Reynolds Family Association Yearbook of 1922, said that although William of Providence is identified with William from Bermuda, there is no proof of it. She pointed out that although we know there was a James Reynolds living in North Kingstown in 1665, we do not know for certain that he was the son of William of Providence. He may have been the son of John of Bermuda. Some evidence that would support this is the fact that he named his son John, and the usual custom in that day was to name the first-born after the paternal grandfather if not after the father himself. Further possible evidence which would lend credence to this theory is the fact that James settled on the Potowomut River in North Kingstown because of the presence of indigo. In Bermuda the family was involved in the manufacture of wild indigo dye. As Mrs. Rippier pointed out, all of this is speculation for which there is currently no proof. Perhaps further research would clear up this matter.

James¹, either the son of William of Providence or John of Bermuda, settled on the Potowomut (Hunt's, Greene's) River and married there. Records show that he and Deborah his wife were living in the Narragansett country in the year 1665 and doubtless at an earlier period. It is not known on what date James¹ was married to Deborah and what her surname was. Likewise we do not know where they spent their early years. It may have been in Plymouth or in Newport. They did have seven children who were born between 1648 and 1664 and before they arrived in Rhode Island.

During Rhode Island's early history, a bitter dispute existed between Rhode Island and Connecticut over the legal jurisdiction of the lands on the west side of Narragansett Bay. The Rhode Island charter definitely gave Rhode Island all the land around Narragansett Bay. However, Lord Say and Seal's claim gave Connecticut all land eastward to Narragansett River (Bay). These conflicting grants caused much trouble. The home government appointed a commission to resolve the quarrel. In 1665 the Commission created "King's Province" out of the disputed lands. This action was confirmed by the King. From this grant came the name Kingstown.

A group of men in 1665 applied to the Rhode Island General Assembly asking for a portion of the land. James Reynolds was one of these men. Apparently James¹ was successful in receiving a grant of land because we know that he was living in King's Province sometime before 1669. The grant of land given to James lay in the northern part of King's Province on the Potowomut River (Hunt's, Greene's) in the section of North Kingstown Quiddnessett (sometimes Acquidnessett). It is interesting to note that all of the other men who received land in the King's Province came from Newport, so it is assumed that James¹ also came from Newport, wherever he may have been before. (sic)

James¹ Reynolds we believe on the basis of the evidence was the first settler to follow the Indians on the land which we call the homestead in Quiddnessett. His farm consisted of about one hundred and fifty acres. A small brook, Sand Hill Stream, flows northerly through the property to join the Potowomut River which forms the northern boundary. The Reynolds Family Cemetery, of which I will soon speak, sits on a slight hill just to the west of the Sand Hill Stream. On the fifty or so acres of the farm situated west of Sand Hill Stream and south of the Potowomut River, James¹ built his homestead. That portion of the farm remained in the family until 1945 when my father, William Reynolds Essex, sold a considerable portion of it. He retained a tract of about twenty acres on the south side of Essex Road. My daughter, Judith (Mrs. Gerry W. Leonard) and her family live on a portion of that tract in a house built by my father. Judith is the tenth generation and her children the eleventh living on a portion of the original grant.

There have been four houses since 1665 on the original site or very close to it. The first house was burned by the Indians in King Philip's War in 1675. The second house burned by accident on a Sabbath morning in 1730. The family had swept the hearth before leaving for the Friend's Meeting. As they rode out on the plain just north of the Potowomut River they looked back and saw the house going up in flames. The third house was built in 1730. In 1803, wanting a larger home, the family had the third house removed to a site to the west about one mile where it is still standing. The fourth house, built in 1803 on a site about one hundred yards to the southwest of the original site, is still standing in a remarkable state of preservation. I lived in that house until age twenty-four when I was married and established my own home.

When the fourth house was being built, a skeleton of a man was uncovered. All of² the family felt these were the remains of John¹, son of James¹, who was killed in the King Philip's War. The bones were removed and interred in the family burial grounds on the farm.

The Reynolds Family Cemetery was incorporated by an act of the Rhode Island General Assembly in 1903 as the William Reynolds Homestead Cemetery Corporation. It had as its avowed purpose the maintenance and care of the cemetery forever. Any descendant of William⁵ and Elizabeth Bowen Reynolds may be a member of the corporation.

The moving force in the creation of the⁵ Cemetery Corporation was Thomas⁶ A. Reynolds, son of William⁵. His grandfather was Jabez⁴, his great grandfather Jabez³, his great great grandfather Francis², son of James¹. He was fondly referred to as "Uncle Thomas" by my father's generation. He was eighty-six years of age at the time of the incorporation. Let me read you a portion of the account of his death which appeared in the Providence Journal of March 10, 1910:

Former State Senator Thomas A. Reynolds one of the oldest residents of East Greenwich, Rhode Island, died at his home in that town shortly after noon yesterday, March 9, 1910. He was 92 years old. He was born in North Kingstown Nov. 1, 1817; and was the son of William and Elizabeth Bowen Reynolds. The father of Mr. Reynolds was associated with Christopher and Elihu Green in the building of the first mill at Potowomut, Rhode Island.

Mr. Reynolds' early school days were spent with a tutor on what is now the farm of Col. R.H.I. Goddard in Warwick, R. I., two or three families joining in the support of the instructor. This was at a period before the establishment of public school system in that section of the State. After finishing his course under the private teacher, he entered the East Greenwich Academy, and later was a student at Friend's School in the city.

In the fall of 1836 he started for Cincinnati, making the trip of stage and canal boat in 13 days. In Ohio he learned the business of a pattern maker and later associated himself with a brother as proprietor of an engine shop and foundry in Cincinnati, under the name of W. K. and T. A. Reynolds. Returning to Rhode Island he met and married Miss Ann Susan Clarke, daughter of Benjamin T. and Mary A. Clarke of North Kingstown, Rhode Island. During the stirring days just prior of the Civil War, he was an active member of the Legislature, serving as Senator from East Greenwich, an office he held for four years. He was twice chosen a delegate to national political conventions for the nomination of candidates for the President of the United States. He was an active member of the Reynolds Family Association and was author of Ancestors and Descendants of William and Elizabeth Bowen Reynolds of North Kingstown, Rhode Island. (end Quote)

Thomas A. Reynolds was a man of considerable vision. He endowed the Association with seven shares of Union Railway stock, the income of which was to be used for the care and maintenance of the cemetery. It is said that the stock was valued at about seven hundred dollars at the time. By careful management the cemetery has been kept in very good condition, largely due to many years of loving care by members of the family, especially my uncle, the late Harold G. Essex, Francis Reynolds Swift, his son Francis Reynolds Swift, Jr. and his grandson, Gregory Swift. While the modest income from the original investment has been used to maintain the Cemetery over the years, the principal which now consists of bank savings deposits and common stock in the New England Electric System, has increased to slightly over three thousand dollars.

Mr. Reynolds, at the time of the Cemetery incorporation, had erected at his expense a large granite monument to honor the memory of his parents, William and Elizabeth Bowen Reynolds. The inscription on the monument reads,

1660
WILLIAM AND ELIZABETH
REYNOLDS
THEIR ANCESTORS
AND DESCENDANTS
ERECTED BY
THOMAS A. REYNOLDS
1904

Each year in June the descendants of William and Elizabeth Reynolds gather to consider the affairs of the Cemetery Association and especially to visit the Cemetery. Perhaps more than anything else, these annual gatherings provide an opportunity for members of the family to renew friendships and ties which for many could so easily be severed. The annual meetings usually attract between thirty and forty family members. Following the business meeting there is a tour of the Cemetery and a social hour.

In 1903, at the time of the Cemetery incorporation, Thomas A. Reynolds wrote a record of the family and prepared a publication entitled, "Ancestors and Descendants of William and Elizabeth Bowen Reynolds of North Kingstown". This work was revised in 1950 by Stella Rogers Smith, assisted by Hattie Essex Sheldon. Although there has been no updating since 1950, this is a project which can soon be undertaken, I hope.

In conclusion, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Reynolds Family Association of America and especially Col. John F. Reynolds for allowing me to tell you of what one segment of the family is doing to preserve our rich heritage and of how we are trying to honor the memory of family members who have preceded us. I thank you.

Stewart R. Essex

HENRY REYNOLDS OF BURLINGTON, NJ, CHICHESTER, PA
LATER CECIL COUNTY MD AS REPORTED BY DR. S. R. N. REYNOLDS
at RFA Meeting - June 17, 1978

The Christopher Reynolds line by way of Henry of Burlington, NJ, PA, MD, started with Henry<sup>1</sup> who came to this country in 1675 with William Penn and a group of Quakers, and settled in southern New Jersey (Burlington) on land given William Penn by the King of England in repayment of loans made to Penn's father. Here they met another family of Quakers, The Claytons, who became very important people not only here but later in Delaware. Later William Penn succeeded in buying the Swedish colony of Upland, PA and he brought his colonists from Burlington in 1682 to Upland which is located south of Chester, PA.

When son Henry Reynolds<sup>2</sup> was about 20, he married, Prudence, the daughter of William Clayton who had been picked by William Penn to govern Pennsylvania. In those days borders were uncertain between Pennsylvania and Maryland. William Penn gave 2500 acres of land to the Henry Reynolds Family which later became known as Nottingham Township in Pennsylvania, but later these lands were determined to be in the Province of Maryland, Cecil County.

The Reynolds of the Quaker group were distinguished people in England -- earls, lords and landed gentry and their lines go back to 1300 and 1400. Look in the large biographical International Dictionary and you will find the lineage right back to a Reynolds who came over to England with William the Conqueror who married the daughter of the Miller of Fillet. When Henry Reynolds married into the Clayton family, he established his relationship with one of that family who married a Mary Mainwaring in Chichester, England. This is the estate General Patton occupied when he was in England with the Third Army and where the Mainwaring Chapel still stands. This chapel is typically Norman architecture and contains the last known stained glass of the Thomas Beckett period because Oliver Cromwell broke all other glass to destroy the evil spirits.

The first Henry Reynolds who sailed from Chichester, England, in 1675, and after a tempestuous voyage of twenty-two weeks landed at Burlington, NJ, has left many descendants who have migrated to Northern Carolina and further South, and to Indiana and Illinois. The early families were known for their large families and adherence to the Quaker faith.

Secretary's note:

See RFA 1935-36-37 Annual, p. 84 for ten children of Henry and Prudence Reynolds and next generation. In later Annuals more information will be given on migrations to Pa., Ind. and Ill. as well as southern lines.

JOURNEY IN VIRGINIA
A History of 300 Years
by Polly Ryan in 1930

(The following was copied by Millard Reynolds from Journey In Virginia, Chapter One, pages 1 - 10 at the Virginia State Library, Richmond, VA)

IN WHICH THEY FIRST ARRIVE--THEN PROCEED FROM INDENTURED SERVANT TO FREE LANDOWNER

Around 1530, when the "first" Christopher Reynolds was born, few common people even dreamed of crossing the vast ocean of water that separated them from America. Today, it is a vast ocean of time that separates us from that first Christopher Reynolds. I know little about him except that he "engaged in commerce." I will venture to guess that he was a second son and maybe proud of it. I say this because each generation, of which I have record, named the second son Christopher.

It is the third Christopher who really begins this story--Christopher Reynolds, son of George, born in 1611 at Gravesend, England.

By 1607, the Virginia Company of London had established a colony in that "new land" across the ocean and Londoners were being urged to invest in the colony. It is very possible that George Reynolds did invest.

"Land, Mr. Reynolds, that is what you have to gain...land and money. Let me explain. All those who have been to this new land tell us that it is rich...rich and vast. But it will take some time and some money to begin to reap the riches. The Virginia Company asks of you only an investment of twelve pounds, ten shilling. Once the land has been cleared of the forest and we begin to harvest crops and manufacture the metal that lies there, we will give you a share of the profit...one share for each twelve pounds ten. And in addition to that, you can claim, for each share, one hundred acres of land at the first division of land. Of course, as we clear more, we will divide the land further among the investors...Why, for just one share of investment, you may gain as much as five hundred acres of land."

George had hoped to make at least some return on his investment; however, by 1616, the colony was still not making any profit. Clearing land was slow business as the company began to see. So, in 1614, they had begun to allow private use of the land, hoping to encourage more people to come and clear it. Those who went were given a first choice of the land. Yet, in 1616, there was not enough cleared land to grant more than fifty acres to each shareholder. Now the investors were asked to give an additional twelve pounds ten. For this, each would be granted fifty acres of of uncleared land and more when the land had been cleared and settled. It probably sounded good to George and his eldest son, Thomas. They could have no idea of the problems involved in clearing land. Thomas made inquiries..."Just what did one need to become a colonist?" The gentleman of the Virginia Company recommended the following:

A monmouth cap...such as those worn by seamen
 Three falling bands
 Three shirts
 One waistcoat
 One canvas suit...to be worn for work
 One freize suit...also for work but in cold weather
 One broadcloth suit...for Sundays
 Three pairs of stockings
 Four pairs of shoes
 Twelve points...narrow ties of ribbon, leather, or worsted used to fasten clothing instead of buttons.

One would also need a musket and any tools required in his trade. In addition, it was advised to take a good supply of malt with which to make ale so that one could avoid drinking the water. The company promised to supply seeds for planting, shelter until such a time as one could provide his own, and mutual protection from the savages.

Thomas was young, unencumbered and adventurous. He persuaded his father that it would be a good idea for him to go to Virginia and settle on the land they had finally gained by the original investment. It would soon be cleared and they would have even more. For some reason, Thomas took young Christopher with him on this adventure. The year was 1622. Christopher was eleven years old.

It was a long journey--nine weeks of tossing and pitching in the ship "John and Francis." From mid-July to September, Christopher and Thomas had little to do but talk of what they would do when they reached Virginia.

"Tom, do you know how to build a house?" Christopher had been gazing across the waves in silence. His question caught Thomas in midthought.

"I never have, but I can learn."

"I understand that most everyone in the colony is a planter. At least everyone is expected to plant and grow some crop, but there are tradesmen too. The colony needs people who will follow all the trades. I have heard that the governor has directed the people to even learn to grow silkworms. There are plenty of mulberry trees. We might raise a few and send some of the silk to Mother and Anne." Thomas knew very little of raising silkworms. "And we will plant some tobacco, but we shall have to plant vegetables as well."

"Must we, Tom? Really?"

"Yes, Christopher, it is part of the agreement. Each person must agree to grow useful things, not just profitable things like tobacco. We will have a lot to learn."

It all sounded much easier than it would be. When the "John and Francis" finally landed at Jamestown, it became obvious that much more was involved in joining a colony than either Thomas or Christopher might have dreamed. In March of that year, 1622, the Indians had unexpectedly attacked several of the outlying settlements, killing and destroying everything English. One third of the total population of the entire colony had been killed in two days. May had died of wounds after that...the usual summer sickness had taken still more lives. Now, with autumn approaching, the remaining people were faced with another winter of hunger. Fear had prevented replanting the fields that were far from the main settlement. Those fields nearby would never yield enough to feed the remaining colonists, to say nothing of those that had just arrived.

A census taken in 1623, in the area south of the James River then called Warrascoyask--a few years earlier known as Lawne's Hundred, lists Christopher Reynolds as one of the less than fifty residents. No mention is found of Thomas. I have assumed that he was probably one of the 500 who died of "pestilient fever" which some said was brought by the newcomers who, in turn, were thought to have contracted it by drinking "stinking beer" on the voyage from England.

Christopher's survival is due, at least in part, to the aid of Edward Bennett. Bennett was a London merchant who--with his brother, Robert, and a nephew--had been granted land in 1621 in the same general area of Lawne's Hundred. The census of 1623 lists Christopher Reynolds, Luke Chappman, and Edward Maybank all as "servants" of Edward Bennett. All three had arrived aboard the "John and Francis" the year before. The term "servant," in this case, probably meant about the same as apprentice and, as such, Christopher served Bennett until 1625. In March of that year, Christopher appeared in court in James City (Jamestown) and under oath said that he had seen and read the indenture of Peter Collins and understood that by that indenture he would be bound to Mr. Bennett for four years. It would appear that Christopher had chosen to serve out the indenture of Collins who may have died. Anyone who paid the passage for a new colonist could receive fifty acres of land for each person transported at their expense. This was known as "headright." It is uncertain whether Bennett could claim "headright" for Reynolds in this way. There is that possibility.

Nevertheless, for the next four years, Christopher lived and worked hard. He learned, from the colonists who had been there before the massacre of 1622, how to cultivate corn, squash, beans, and various other native plants in the Indian manner. His own contact with native "red men" was limited by law. Whites were forbidden to even speak with the Indian or to deal with them in any way. To do so could be punished by death. So afraid were the authorities that the Indians might again attack. However, many Indian methods of agriculture were being used.

In clearing land--and land had to be cleared in order to plant crops--the trees were first "girdled" just as the Indians had done for centuries. The bark was cut completely around the tree and a few inches stripped away. By the next year, the tree would be dead and enough light would reach the ground for plants to grow. The trees were felled one at a time, each one stripped of branches and the trunk stripped of bark and hewed square...all by hand, of course. The even greater task of removing the stumps could take several years for even a small field. It was not at all unusual for crops to be planted among the stumps and still have stumps remaining when the field was considered worn out and unfit for use.

Undoubtedly, Christopher learned a great deal about the cultivation and curing of tobacco, for it was on this one crop that the entire economy of the colony was based. Since all buildings were constructed of wood, it was not unusual for fire to destroy some buildings every year; these would have to be replaced, not to mention improvements and additions to be made on existing buildings. The English had brought their building skills and styles with them from England. Indian style buildings was considered good only for temporary shelters; therefore, the earlier buildings in the colony were "half timbered"--a framework of upright and beams were braced with shorter, diagonal beams. Smaller timbers were woven to fill the open spaces and the whole thing "daubed" inside and out with plaster or mud. By the time Christopher began to learn to build, most homes had chimneys of brick...the brick being made of the native red clay.

Whatever he did or whatever he learned during his years of indenture, Christopher would have been well fed. The loose, sandy soil was fertile and easily cultivated, and yielded ample crops of potatoes, asparagus, carrots, turnips, onions, and parsnips. Apples, pears, quince, apricots, and peaches were harvested from trees planted by the first colonists. Strawberries, gooseberries, raspberries, and blackberries grew wild.

Trees and bushes yielded nuts, and wild vegetables, greens, peas, onions, and herbs were available to the taker. So, too, were oysters, clams, a variety of fish, and wild fowl. Venison and occasional bear was still not difficult to find. domesticated livestock and poultry were common and plentiful. Corn was used in a variety of ways and bread made of ground corn was, and remains, a favorite of Virginians everywhere. To drink, a beer made of persimmon was common, as well as malt beers. Molasses was used to make liquor and wild grapes to make wine. Cider was a favorite drink from the time apples became plentiful enough. The water was avoided whenever possible.

When Christopher's indenture was finished, Bennett was obliged by custom, if not law, to supply him with a few basic tools, a complete suit of clothes, and a small amount of money. With these in hand, the freedman was expected to begin a life on his own. Sometimes a master would give his freed servant a few acres of land or would rent land to him, usually for a share of the crop.

Frequently, a newly independent servant would buy a part of a grant from a man who had large holdings. He, in turn, might sell a still smaller parcel to yet another man. One piece of property might change hands many times in a very short time. Just such a piece may have been Christopher's first holding, at least we have no earlier record. In 1619, Giles Jones patented one hundred acres in what is now Isle of Wight County, Virginia. On October 19, 1628, that same land was deeded to Justinian Cooper. On September 29, 1629, Cooper transferred the land to Wessel Weblin and George Fawdon, who in turn transferred it to Robert Sabin on February 25, 1630. Sabin held the land for almost five years and transferred it to Reynolds. Christopher held the land until May 1, 1639, when he sold it to Peter Hull.

Shortly after acquiring his first property, Christopher returned to England just long enough to find nine people who were willing to come to America with him. He returned to Virginia aboard the ship "Speedwell." As soon as he could, he began the procedure of claiming "headright" on the nine people that he had transported. First, he had to appear before a county court and state under oath the number of persons for whom he claimed transport. The clerk would issue a certificate which had to be validated in the secretary's office. A surveyor would then be authorized to measure off land, wherever the claimant chose, and to mark the boundaries. There might be some delay at this point.

Between 1625 and 1635, the population of that one area had grown from thirty one persons to 522. Surveyors were few but claims many; a constant backlog existed.

Christopher had chosen 450 acres south of Pagan Creek, about three miles upstream from the James River. A smaller creek ran eastward into Pagan Creek along the back of the land. The only approach to the land may have been Pagan Creek up which the small flat-bottomed boats of that time would have had no trouble going. Even today Pagan Creek twists its way through the flat, green tidewater country. And today, as then, homes along the creek have private wharves which often are the only sign that a home lies just out of sight among the trees.

Once the land was measured and marked, a copy of the survey record and certificates had to be taken to the secretary's office where notation was made of those imported and a patent drawn.

This had to be signed by the governor in the presence of the council. On September 15, 1636, this was done and the land was officially Renolds'(sic).

I have little doubt that one of the first things Christopher did was to build a home on his newly acquired land since in 1637 he married a girl named Elizabeth. They began to raise a fine family along with the tobacco which paid for all goods.

Christopher continued to do some dealing with land. The records show that he acquired 350 acres in 1640 that had originally been patented to James Poe. In 1643, he transferred the same land to Arthur Smith with the stipulation that Smith not build or plant on the land for three years. This land lay at the junction of Cypress Creek (Swamp) and Pagan Creek, and is today a part of Smithfield, Virginia...named for the same Arthur Smith.

In 1654, Christopher Reynolds was only forty-three years old. He was the father of six children--three sons, the second named Christopher, and three daughters. By April of that year, Elizabeth was again pregnant. What prompted Christopher Sr. to write his will? Was he seriously ill, had he been injured, or was it a premonition? We only know that on May 1, 1654 he did write a will and died shortly thereafter. In his will, he left land "on which Richard Jordan lives" to Christopher, the second son. John was to have land near the creek at the age of twenty-one. (John died at the age of twenty-four.) Richard is not mentioned in the will, but would have probably received the plantation anyway. The eldest daughter, Abasha, just eight years old, had already received her inheritance--probably a cow or couple of calves. Elizabeth would receive cattle. It would be enough for a nice dowry for each if well managed. Jane, the youngest, is not mentioned; however, part of the will is missing. Was she so young that her survival was still not certain?

The unborn child is mentioned, but at that point the writing is blurred beyond readability. The executrix of the will is to be the wife, Elizabeth, and she is also made guardian of John and Richard until they reach sixteen. But what about Christopher Jr.? He was younger than Richard. Did the writer of the will already recognize that Christopher would be quite capable of taking care of himself? An unanswered question. And there was one more...The will leaves one heifer to George Rivers. Who was George Rivers? Perhaps a young brother-in-law, an orphan, or favorite servant? Was he a stepson as one source suggests?

During Christopher Reynolds' life in the colony, Virginia had been changed from a company venture to that of a crown colony (1624). Representative government had its beginning in the New World with the establishment of the House of Burgesses. Royal governors had come and gone, some quarreling constantly with the colonists and other working well with them. That area in which Reynolds lived had become Warrosquyoade County in 1629 and, in 1637, the name had been changed to Isle of Wight. Born in England, Reynolds had undoubtedly thought of himself as an Englishman, but he probably thought of himself as a Virginian as well. He had lived most of his life in Virginia and, after his death in the spring of 1654, he was most likely buried on his own plantation.

I have found no information about what happened to John, Abasha, Jane and Thomas Reynolds. Richard married Elizabeth Sharpe. They had one son, also Richard, who was apparently a carpenter; he was commissioned to shingle the Isle of Wight Courthouse in 1694. The son also married an Elizabeth, daughter of George Williams.

Elizabeth Reynolds, daughter of Christopher Sr., married Richard Jordan, the same who had rented land from her father. She was sixteen years old when she married.

Christopher Jr. was only fifteen years old when, on November 25, 1657, he appeared in court claiming "headright" for seven people brought into the colony. He was granted 350 acres along Cypress Creek, bordering on one side his father's land. At the time of his grant, the land was possession of a Mr. Nutt.

While he was quite young, he began his own farm. Christopher Jr. was forty-four years old when his first son was born. He and his wife, Ann, might have had any number of children before 1686, but they had died before any record could be made of the births. Infant and childhood mortality was very high. There were few physicians in the colony and they were called on only in cases where it was considered nothing else could be done. Frequently, even a physician could not help. Drugs were used primarily to encourage sweating, vomiting, or to purge the bowels. A patient was often bled as part of any treatment. A physician was rarely called for the birth of a child. Help, if needed, was summoned from a midwife whose medical training was experience rather than knowledge. Nothing was known about bacteria and little about now diseases spread. It was not unusual, therefore, for a family to lose several children while they were very young.

Some deaths in the colony during the second half of the seventeenth century may have been related to the fact that the price of tobacco fluctuated wildly. This was due, in part, to the Navigations Act which made it necessary for all tobacco grown in Virginia to pass through England where duty was added. Demand fell as the price rose. In Virginia, more and more people were growing more and more tobacco; the market was quickly flooded.

By 1666, tobacco was worth practically nothing in the colony and a major portion of the population was reduced to hand-to-mouth existence. No one went hungry--there was still an abundance of food--but many would go without the services of a physician or midwife as the service simply could not be afforded. Records show that the service of a midwife varied from two hens to one hundred pounds of tobacco. And if the tobacco was without value...

It was during these same years that the class of small farmers increased. Few people held as much as a thousand acres of land. The average plantation was only a few hundred acres. The number of servants or slaves on each plantation was between seven and fifteen.

By 1682, the tobacco market had again improved and life returned to normal. In 1686, Richard, first son of Christopher and Ann, was born and was followed in 1688 by a second son who, following the tradition, was named Christopher. In 1690, a daughter was born and named Elizabeth for Christopher's mother and sister. "Aunt" Elizabeth was flattered and took great interest in her young namesake.

The Richard Jordan, whom Elizabeth (Aunt) had married in 1664, was the son of Thomas Jordan. These Jordans were among those who were early converts to Quakerism in Virginia. George Fox, the founder of the Society of Friends, made a visit to Virginia in 1672. He had been preceded by several missionaries in 1656 and 1657 so we cannot guess when this conversion took place. However, we know that during his visit Fox spoke at a meeting in the Nansemond River which was "attended by Maj. Gen. Bennett and others," and that many were converted at that time.

To be a Quaker, at that time in Virginia, meant taking some risk. One of the first official acts of Governor Berkely had been to make it against the law for Quakers to come into the colony or for anyone to "entertain" a Quaker. In 1662, this law was softened when Charles II instructed Berkely to "not molest" anyone in the practice of his religion. How well either of these laws were observed was a matter of local feeling.

My point, though, is that the doctrine of the Friends was a part of the life of young Elizabeth Reynolds through her aunt. It may have been at a meeting of the Society of Friends that Elizabeth met Charles Moorman.

WHOM DID MARCIA PHEBE REYNOLDS MARRY?

By Edward W. Hubbard of Nokesville, VA

According to family tradition, Marcia Phebe Reynolds, a descendant of John and Sarah Reynolds of Watertown, MA, married Alexander Cruikshank Gibson on 1 August 1825; his real name was Cruikshank, but Marcia mad it a condition of marriage that he should change it¹. Through research in the mohawk Valley region of New York State, my wife and I were able to document this marriage, the name change, and the baptisms of their four offsprings. As is often the case, the tradition was found to be not entirely accurate.

The records of the Esperance Presbyterian Church², of Esperance, Schoharie County, New York, show the marriage of Alexander Crookshank, Esq., of Esperance, to Marcia P. Reynolds, of Town of Florida, Montgomery County, 1 August 1825.

The same church records also show the baptism of two children, identified as the sons of Alexander Crookshank, Esq.:

David Crookshank, baptized 7 January 1827

Charles James Crookshank, baptized 18 May 1828

In 1832, Alexander Crookshank represented Schoharie County in the Assembly, the lower house of the New York State Legislature. On 4 April 1832, the Legislature passed a bill⁴ whereby Alexander Crookshank became known as Alexander C. Gibson, his family became known by the family name of Gibson, and seven other individuals became known by the name Gibson instead of Crookshank. The seven other were probably siblings, parents, and perhaps a grandmother of Alexander's although the bill does not identify explicitly their relationship to him.

The third and fourth children of Alexander Gibson and Marcia Phebe Reynolds were baptized in the First Dutch Reformed Church of Schenectady, New York, on 14 September 1833:

Franklin, born 7 March 1830

Julia, born 19 August 1832

Thus, Marcia Phebe Reynolds married, not Alexander Gibson, but Alexander Crookshank. It seems unlikely that Alexander Crookshank changed his name as a condition of marriage, for nearly seven years had passed, and three offspring had been born as Crookshanks. Study of the Schoharie County Records, and the Schenectady newspapers of the period suggests another motivation. Alexander was a lawyer and aspiring Whig politician. Perhaps he thought the name Crookshank a political liability.

Primary sources make it clear that Cruikshank was the spelling adopted by later genealogists, not the spelling used by Alexander himself.

THESE PLANTATIONS by J. Earl Clauson

Anybody with plenty of time and taste for such things probably could collect a basketful of interesting stories along the turnpikes running out of Providence to Hartford, Danelson and other places. He'd better get about it promptly, however, because the old-timers who know them are passing.

The most interesting one to fall on these receptive ears has to do with grandfather's busy night at the Tug Hollow gate on the New London Pike. It was told us by John C. Lewis, who lives on the Warwick waterfront and we believe is the only person still extant who collected toll on that now neglected highway. He was a boy. Grandfather was Stephen Reynolds, Mr. Lewis's ancestor.

The New London Turnpike struck out of Providence southwest of Gorham's followed for part of its route the present Reservoir avenue. It ran down through the Pawtuxet Valley and east of Tiogue Lake--still does, for that matter, although not many motorists follow it, preferring to stick to the concreted Nooseneck Hill Road.

It scaled Pine Hill, the capital of Exeter, Making a straighter run of it than the hard road, hit into the Nooseneck Hill highway north of Wyoming, held that route to Hopkinton village, and then diverged to the southwest for a pretty direct dive across North Stonington to New London.

The distance from Providence to New London by the turnpike is 49 miles, materially less than the routes automobiles pursue today.

NEW LONDON PIKE FREE AND NOBODY USES IT

Going out of Providence the first tollgate was at the Gorton Arnold stand in Warwick. The second was at Westcott's, below Natick, where, says Mr. Lewis, the only original toll house still stands.

Arnold's was a whole gate, Westcott's a half gate. Whole gates were 6 1/2 miles apart, half gates 3 1/4 miles.

The privilege of keeping gate was let out by the turnpike company. Stephen Reynolds paid $35 a year for his gate at Tug Hollow. He was obligated to keep the pike in repair half way in both directions to the next gate.

Toll charges at whole gates were 12 1/2 cents for a chaise, six cents for a man on horseback, six cents for a horse and wagon.

A pair of horses paid ten cents. Cattle, sheep and hogs were taxed one cent per head. A "chariot," as private coaches were called, paid 30 cents, and the stage coach 20 cents. But the stage coach never was held up for payment, bills being discharged monthly or annually. When a stage coach was underway, horses at a gallop, as was their customary gait, with passengers and mails aboard, it was very questionable form to halt it between stages to settle a petty toll charge.

Foot passengers passed through free. There were plenty of altercations about charges, and often Mr. Reynolds would explain to objectors that if they didn't want to pay they could go back a quarter of a mile and find a road which would carry them around the gate and back into the turnpike again. He was easy going that way.

At night the gates were left open and everybody went through free. Mr. Reynolds couldn't be bothered.

There was a half gate at Crompton, and the next below was Jim Webster's, a whole gate. Tug Hollow gate lay south of these, near Wyoming.

Mr. Reynolds-South County oldsters incline to pronounce the name Runnels--was a cooper. His son-in-law, Warren Lewis, handled the tollgate at the time John C. Lewis came into the picture. But grandfather's busy night happened while he himself was running the toll house as a sideline to his cooperage business. This was in 1832, long before John C. Lewis had been thought of.

In the autumn of that year a man came along and bought a load of barrels. Standing by watching the transaction was what was then known as a traveler and today is called a tramp. The Providence and Stonington Railroad was being put through, with construction camps here and there of laborers, largely raw Irish, doing the pick and shovel work.

The traveler, who said his name was Burke, watched interestedly when grandfather brought out a shotbag containing what looked like a lot of money. Actually it was about $60 in one dollar bills. The barrel deal was closed and the purchaser said he would be back two weeks later for another load.

He disappeared down the road, and presently so also did Burke. Two weeks later, on Nov. 16, 1832, at nightfall Burke turned up again. He was barefooted. He rapped at the Reynolds door asked whether he might stay the night.

The hospitable and humane country people couldn't find it in their heart to turn him away into the chilly night, so they let him in, fed him and appointed him a bed in the loft. A couple of coopers' apprentices, Burgess Terry and Sam Wager, had their beds there also.

That night the boys went out to a party. Burke turned in. The apprentices came back late and tired, and Wager went to bed still wearing his cravat, a stiffly starched neckcloth. His slovenliness probably saved his life, although there's no moral in that.

Burke had taken into the loft with him a bundle which it was later found contained white pine twigs. After the apprentices were sound asleep, he broke a few of these to determine whether or not anyone was disturbed by the cracking noise.

Nobody stirred. Burke then got off his bed, crept to where Terry and Wager lay, and began striking at them with an axe he had brought in from the woodpile. Terry was quickly disposed of with a cracked skull, but Wager, sleeping with his arm over his head, was only hurt by the first blow and yelled. Burke struck him again, this time rendering him unconscious.

TRAIL LOST IN MIRY GUTTER, WOULD-BE MURDERER ESCAPES

Wager's yell had aroused grandfather, who stood at the bottom of the stairs asking what the trouble was. Burke rushed down with his knife in his hand—a big, cheap clasp knife—and stabbed him deeply in the side. He fell, Burke on top.

Grandmother Reynolds, completely aroused by now, rushed to the front door to go for help. There were four stone steps. Before she could get down, Burke had caught her and stabbed her twice in the breast. Concluding she was finished, he ran back into the loft, past grandfather, who lay bleeding all over the floor, and stabbed Wager in the neck. That was where the cravat saved the apprentice's life.

It happened that that day a man had fallen off the roof of the Tug Hollow mill and broken his leg and people were up in the house, a quarter of a mile away. Grandmother, hurt and plenty frightened but plucky, managed to make her way there and spread the alarm.

By the time help reached the Reynolds house Burke had run out, picked up his shoes beside the woodpile, where he had left them the night before, and fled. Twenty men and women were soon after him with guns, pitchforks and clothes tub mauls.

They could follow his trail across the meadows, white with rime, until it disappeared into Miry Gutter, a nearby swamp. There it was lost, and Burke was never taken.

The Reynolds believed he took refuge among his fellow Irish in one of the railroad construction camps. But several years later a man before being hanged in Massachusetts confessed to killing an entire family in Exeter, R.I., and it may have been Burke.

Grandfather lived nine years after that exciting night. Mr. Lewis still has the nightshirt he wore, its old bloodstains never washed away, and the knife with which he was stabbed. Wager, recovering, ran away to sea. Terry, a silver plate in his skull, moved to Plymouth, Mass.

There must be a lot of stories along the old turnpike. The nightshirt and knife is still owed by a descendant of Stephen Reynolds, Harlan Lewis Smith, the father of Linwood A. Smith a Reynolds Family Association member (Linwood A. Smith<sup>11</sup>, Harlan L. Smith<sup>10</sup>, Vara Hulda Lewis, John Clark<sup>3</sup> Lewis<sup>2</sup>, Amey Reynolds, Samuel<sup>6</sup>, Stephen, John[taylor]<sup>4</sup>, Henry, Henry, James<sup>7</sup>).

THE FIFTH GENERATION

JOSEPH<sup>5</sup> REYNOLDS (George<sup>4</sup>, Joseph<sup>3</sup>, Joseph<sup>2</sup>, James<sup>1</sup>), son of George and Joanna (Spencer) Reynolds, was born in Exeter, Rhode Island, July 9, 1749. On October 31, 1771, he was married by Elder Solomon Sprague to Experience Davis of West Greenwich. She was born April 9, 1751, the daughter of William and Elizabeth Davis.

Shortly after their marriage Joseph and Experience Reynolds moved from Exeter, Rhode Island, to Stephentown, Albany (now Rensselaer) County, New York. During the Revolution he served in the 4th Regiment, Albany County Militia, under Col. Kilian Van Rensselaer, and also in Captain Peter Van Vorts Company, 13th Regiment, Albany county Militia. In the census of 1790 he was listed as a householder in Stephentown.

In 1798 or 1799 Joseph emigrated from New York state to Limestone (now Maysville), Kentucky, and in the spring of 1800 purchased 1,250 acres of land in Eagle Township, Adams County (now Jackson Township, Brown County), Ohio and began clearing off a farm the same season. All his children including those already married and with families of their own, settled in the same neighborhood, which became known as the "Yankee Settlement." Joseph Reynolds continued to reside on the land he first purchased until his death, December 25, 1823. His wife Experience survived until November 7, 1832. both are buried in the Reynolds Family Cemetery about one and one-half miles southwest of the village of Ash Ridge. Joseph and Experience (Davis) Reynolds were the parents of fourteen children all born in New York state one of which was Davis Reynolds.

Abigail Cottrell b. 11 Dec 1752, (see sixth generation)

John Cottrell b. 29 Sep 1755, md. Esther Dyer

Lucy Cottrell b. 23 Feb 1758

Susanna Cottrell b. 30 Mar 1768

Sarah Reynolds b. 17 Oct 1757

Ann Reynolds b. 15 Dec 1759; d. 10 Mar 1760

George Reynolds b. 19 Feb 1761

Waite Reynolds b. 26 Dec 1763; d. 13 Mar 1769

Anna Reynolds b. 11 Dec 1769

Solomon Reynolds b. ; md. Frances Northup 24 Dec 1793<sup>h</sup>

SIXTH GENERATION

DAVIS<sup>6</sup> REYNOLDS (Joseph<sup>5</sup>, George<sup>4</sup>, Joseph<sup>3</sup>, Joseph<sup>2</sup>, James<sup>1</sup>), was born December 26, 1779, in Massachusetts, according to the 1850 census of Clinton County, Iowa, but more probably just across the state line in Stephentown, New York.<sup>i</sup> He accompanied his parents to Adams (now Brown) County, Ohio. On November 10, 1808, he married Amelia Dunn, a daughter of James Dunn, and a sister of Henry and Ferrel Dunn, early settlers of Brown County. She was born in 1782.

Davis Reynolds enlisted for service in the Ohio Militia in the War of 1812, and was enrolled as a corporal in Captain Abraham Shepherd's Company.

Late in 1830 Davis and Amelia (Dunn) Reynolds moved from Brown County, Ohio, to Vermilion County, Illinois, and about 1836 they moved again to Clinton County, Iowa. Amelia (Dunn) Reynolds died May 3, 1848; Davis Reynolds died May 9, 1862. They are buried in the Mt. Hope Cemetery, Maquoketa, Iowa. Davis and Amelia (Dunn) Reynolds were the parents of at least eleven children.

Sarah Reynolds b. 1 Sept 1793, (see 7th generation)

SEVENTH GENERATION

survived until 1843. They were the parents of three children:

Theodore Lyman b. May 1, 1827, in Brown County, Ohio;
d. December 26, 1914; md. in 1846 Margaret Payne
Chauncey Lyman b. 1830; living in Los Angeles, CA, in 1855
Mary A. Lyman d. at age 4 years

NATHAN<sup>7</sup> REYNOLDS (Davis<sup>6</sup>, Joseph<sup>5</sup>, George<sup>4</sup>, Joseph<sup>3</sup>, Joseph<sup>2</sup>, James<sup>1</sup>) was born July 17, 1811, in Adams (now Brown County, Ohio. He married Charlotte John, who was born March 12, 1811, in Chenango County, New York. Nathan Reynolds was one of the first settlers in Linn County, Iowa. He died March 27, 1893, at Marion, Linn County; his wife preceded him in death on March 11, 1884. They were the parents of ten children:

Henry Reynolds b. 2 Aug 1836; d. 25 Jun 1864, while enrolled in the 24th Iowa Vol. Inf.; md. 4 Mar 1862, Elizabeth McMullen

Davis Reynolds md. Martha Ann Maddox

Hiram Reynolds d. in the Civil War

John d. killed in an accident

Russell Reynolds b. 4 Aug 1843; md. Julia Ludwig

Justine Reynolds md. Reuben Baumgartner

Matilda Reynolds md. _____ Stanton

Leonora Reynolds md. James Alexander

Letitia Reynolds b. 22 Nov 1848; d. 11 Oct 1922; md. Charles Granson Finney Cook

Cordelia Reynolds

Ferrell Reynolds married second Jerusha Kettle; she was born March 20, 1819, and died March 12, 1909. There were no children by this marriage. Ferrel Reynolds died December 12, 1898. He, his first wife, and his second wife, are buried in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Maquoketa, Jackson County, Iowa.

Levi Pearce d. a bachelor

Ann Ophelia Pearce b. 3 Mar 1842; d. 12 Apr 1921; md. Ellison Taylor

Page 184 Revise 255, biography of Howard Irving Reynolds, by replacing last sentence with the following:

He did extensive traveling and writing. He was a newspaper reporter at the time of the San Francisco earthquake in 1906, where he was on the scene. He later entered the insurance business, which he conducted at his office in Philadelphia, Pa. He died suddenly July 18, 1918, at his home in Jenkintown, Pa. His wife and two small children continued to reside in Jenkintown until 1923, when they moved to Philadelphia.

Page 184: Revise 256, biography of Clarence Giles Reynolds, by replacing the last two sentences with the following:

He was manager of the Boston office of the American Pulley Co., Philadelphia, Pa., for a number of years, and later the Jacksonville, Fla. office. He married several times before his death on June 3, 1956, at his Philadelphia home. His last wife was Harriet Hartlein, whose last known address was Trevorton, Pa.
